

Famed Met Star, Leonard Warren, Dies During Opera

American Baritone Collapses
After Singing Second Act Aria

New York —(P)— Leonard Warren, a world favorite and one of the greatest baritones developed in this country, collapsed and died on stage Friday night at the Metropolitan Opera.

As his wife Agatha watched from a capacity audience, Warren, 48, playing Don Carlo, completed singing in the next to last scene of the second act of Verdi's La Forza del Destino.

His last singing words were: "He is saved, he is saved, oh joy!" from the aria "Fatal Turn of My Destiny."

As he prepared for his exit, the 6-foot Warren fell to the stage. The music trailed off in the orchestra pit and the curtain came down.

As the audience buzzed and speculated, a Catholic priest went backstage and administered last rites.

Dr. Adrian Zorognotti, the Met's house physician, diagnosed the cause of the collapse as a stroke.

Rudolf Bing, general manager of the Met, first came before the curtain and invited the audience to remain seated. The seriousness of the situation was not immediately known. Twenty minutes later Bing, visibly shaken, again appeared and told a hushed assemblage:

"This is one of the saddest moments in the Metropolitan's history. I will ask you to please stand in tribute to one of our greatest performers."

"Mr. Warren died during the performance. I am sure you will agree with me that we cannot go on with the opera."

Dazed, 3,900 persons arose. Many began to cry and sob. Then they filed out slowly. What had begun as a gala evening marking the return to the company of Italian prima donna Renata Tebaldi had ended in real-life tragedy.

East Digging Out of Storm

Cold Wave, Winds
Hit as Blizzard
Toil Reaches 150

New York —(P)— A stricken Northeast struggled to dig out from under its crippling mantle of snow today as the great March storm headed out over the North Atlantic.

From Maine to Dixie residents worked to clear paths and rescue automobiles from under mountainous snow drifts.

In many areas, work was hampered by a cold wave that turned packed snow hard and chilled slush into unmanageable ice.

150 Dead

Across the nation, the weather death toll neared the 150 mark.

New England reeled under the storm's most vicious blows Friday as the frigid fury howled seaward. Gusts of hurricane force whipped the region, dumping up to two feet of snow and swirling it into drifts up to 11 feet.

The south caught a bitter taste of winter too. The Carolinas had from four inches to a foot of snow. Atlanta got its worst winter buffeting in 24 years.

Aid Rushed to Moroccan Town Hit by Quakes

U. S. Funds Allocated
As Rescuers Halt
Search for Survivors

Washington —(P)— America has allocated half a million dollars for aid to Agadir, Morocco, where two violent earthquakes killed perhaps as many as 12,000.

The state department said Friday night the money, from the Mutual Security contingency fund, was used mostly to get supplies moving from U. S. military stocks.

American aid to the stricken city began a few hours after the Feb. 29 disaster. Ambassador Charles C. Yost released $10,000 from his emergency fund and U. S. military planes began flying medical and relief supplies to Agadir, and removing casualties.

Out of Food

The International Cooperation administration said it has arranged for shipment of 5,000 tons of grain and 50 tons of milk. Dr. El Mehdi Ben Aboud, Moroccan ambassador, asked the American people for help. He asked that contributions be sent to the American Red Cross marked "Agadir."

The stench-filled ruins of this once-sparkling resort city lay deserted today, a mass graveyard for uncounted thousands who perished in Monday's twin earthquakes, tidal wave and fire.

As weary rescue workers abandoned Agadir, Morocco's Crown Prince Moulay Hassan announced that 4,000 persons were known dead and at least 6,000 more presumed dead.

He said the full toll may have reached 12,000 — more than one-fourth of the city's 40,000 population.

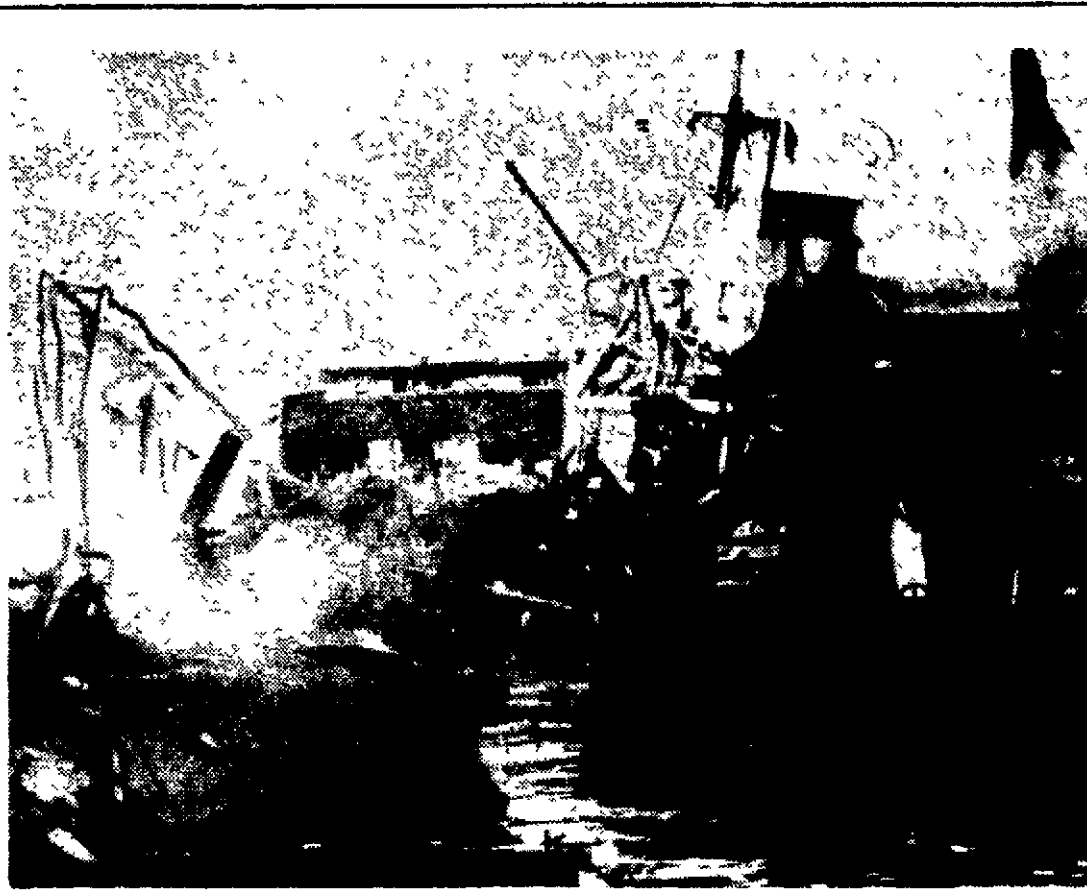

The prince, who directed rescue operations, ordered the withdrawal of rescue teams to avoid the danger of pestilence.

Sgt. Presley Leaves Army Ready to Hit Rock 'n Roll Stage

Ft. Dix, N.J. —(P)— Rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley leaves this army post for civilian life today, apparently ready, willing and able to resume his show business activities.

But first he plans to spend a few weeks at his Memphis, Tenn., home, he told newsmen.

Presley, 24, completed a 2-year army hitch and drew his final pay check before leaving the post. At time of discharge he was a sergeant.

A Series of Explosions Friday left the French freighter La Coubre a twisted mass of charred steel and killed and wounded scores of persons on the docks at Havana bay in Cuba. The ship was bringing munitions to Fidel Castro's army.

Bankers Hit Loan Group Exemptions

Want Taxes on Building and Loan
Units, Credit Unions Equalized

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — Angry bankers told Wisconsin tax policymakers Friday that continued tax sheltering of competitors of banks may bring catastrophe to commercial credit in Wisconsin.

The testimony before a sub-committee of the blue ribbon tax revision commission marked a resumption of the long political feud between the banks and their fast growing rivals who enjoy exemption from state taxes — the savings and loan associations.

A new element entered the argument, however, as bankers complained that tax free credit unions have grown so fast with favorable laws that they should also be brought under the umbrella of taxation "while the world is afire."

Bankers at the conference here neatly turned a defensive position into an offensive campaign.

Suggestion on Taxing Edwin Larkin of Eau Claire, who is financially interested in a Buffalo county bank, invited leaders of the Wisconsin Independent Bankers association, representing smaller banks, and the Wisconsin Bankers association, a general trade group, to make suggestions on how bank tax laws could be revised to provide

Air Force To Assist Indians

Window Rock, Ariz. —(P)— Air force officials say they expected to air drop more food to about 70 Navajo families stranded in deep snow along the New Mexico-Arizona border.

Helicopters from the air force special weapons center in Albuquerque flew in food packs to the snow bound families Friday.

The families are isolated by the deep snow in areas north of Window Rock, Crystal, N.M., and Chee Dodge, Ariz., and in the Sawmill, Ariz., area around White Clay.

It is possible that the families may be stranded for two or three more weeks without getting food supplies through normal routes, officials say.

A check was made by helicopter crew members to see if any of the people needed more food or were sick, but the copters were unable to land. A few of the Indians waved blankets but the crews could not tell whether additional help was needed.

Skate En Route Home

Portland, England, — (P)— With a jazz band blaring from its foredeck, the U. S. atomic submarine Skate sailed for home today after a 4-day goodwill visit to Britain.

Humphrey and Kennedy Meet

Take Digs at Each Other; Concentrate On Administration

By The Associated Press

Two rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination stood on the same Kansas platform Friday night, trying to outdo each other in buffeting the Eisenhower administration.

While Sens. John F. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., joined in what was billed as a debate, the Republicans moved to tie up relations between two men once thought to be rivals for their party's nomination.

A close associate of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York was appointed to the executive committee arranging the Republican National convention. The appointment of L. Judson Morhouse, New York Republican chairman, apparently was initiated by supporters of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

At one time, Rockefeller was expected to challenge Nixon for the nomination. But he decided against entering the race.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., touring Illinois for the second straight weekend, said the nation's defense weakness will undermine the president's position at the East-West summit conference in May.

Southern Platoons Work

Senate Filibuster Cracking Pro-Civil Rights' Strength

BY JACK BELL

Washington —(P)— It wasn't supposed to come out that way at all, but southern filibusters have about worn out civil rights advocates with their marathon talk in the senate.

There are unmistakable signs that those most grateful for the weekend break in most of continuous senate sessions will not be the southerners but those who originally sought to exhaust them.

This has come through expert platooning of the 18 civil rights opponents and the inability of the bill's supporters to work out any comparable system.

As a result, many of the civil rights advocates are physically groggy and tired mentally from more than five days of around-the-clock sessions. Some of them said first restful sleep in a week when they relax in their homes over the weekend.

The southerners look as fresh and as peppy as when the around-the-clock session started last Monday noon. Captained by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), they divided themselves into three

French Ship, Docks Blasted In Havana; Unloading Slip Thought Possible Cause

Havana —(P)— The government hinted today at sabotage in the French munitions ship disaster in Havana harbor but independent reports said an unloading accident may have caused the shattering blasts.

Newspaper estimates of the dead ranged from 41 to more than 50, and a TV station suggested the range was 75 to 100. There were no official casualty figures.

Another six persons were reported injured in the dock disaster area this morning in what Havana radio described as a hand grenade explosion. The radio said those hurt were among rescue workers sifting through the dockside wreckage caused by the ship blasts.

After a midnight emergency cabinet session, president Osvaldo Dorticos told a nationwide TV audience that Friday's explosion aboard the freighter La Coubre carrying 76 tons of munitions "had all the characteristics of a barbarous and criminal attack on the people of Cuba."

Charge Sabotage Pro — government sources came right out and called the explosions the work of saboteurs.

But as indignation mounted, the independent newspaper Information said the collapse of a loading net filled with explosives, as well as an act of sabotage, figured as a possible cause.

The usually reliable Information set the casualty totals at 44 dead, 258 injured and 13 missing. The conservative Diario de la Marina put the total dead at more than 50.

The semi-official newspaper Revolucion said all information gathered by Castro's security forces "indicate it was produced by an act of sabotage promoted by an international plot against Cuba."

Place Standby Castro placed his military and police forces on a stand-by alert in the wake of the blasts.

A usually reliable source close to the government said a time bomb had been found in the ship's freezing unit, but this was not officially confirmed.

Some Castro elements suggested a sneak light plane raid by government foes set off the explosions which demolished three waterfront warehouses.

Nelson Named Head Of Civil Rights Unit

St. Paul, Minn. —(P)— Wisconsin's Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson Friday was elected chairman of the Governors' Conference on Civil Rights which was gathered for its third annual meeting.

Phantom Roads Getting Aids Survey Finds

Funds Paid for Logging Trails,
Impassable Lanes

Madison —(P)— A highway commission survey has disclosed that during the last 25 years state aids totaling about a quarter million dollars annually have been paid on non-existent town roads.

The phantom roadway lengths total about 1,100 miles, are scattered throughout 30 counties, and reportedly include private driveways, old logging trails and impassable lanes.

Some details of the survey — requested by the legislature's highway advisory committee — were disclosed Friday by W. J. Burmeister, commission planning and research chief.

Cut Out Miles Burmeister said the commission had expected the survey to result in a cut in the total of 57,367 miles of town roads now certified by town officials as qualified for state aid.

"But the full findings came as a surprise," he said.

"There have been spot checks throughout the years in which discrepancies were noted," he added. "but the survey showed mileages in pastures have been certified too."

State aid payments ranged on the impassable or non-existent roads from $231 to $733 a mile.

Burmeister said he saw "no intention of malfeasance or anything like that" on the part of town officials involved.

"There was perhaps carelessness on the part of some who didn't check over old mileage charges when they took office," he said.

Finch Case to Jury

Doctor and Mistress Face Death Penalties

Los Angeles —(P)— Two million words of testimony and argument were only a prelude to the critical question the Finch trial jury is trying to answer in two or three syllables: guilty or not guilty.

The jury got the case Friday and there was no telling when it might be back with a verdict. The general feeling was it would be a matter of days.

After deliberating today, the jurors get Sunday off.

Alternatives

"Guilty" or "not guilty" actually will appear in the verdict four times, since Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his mistress, Carole Tregoff, are charged on two counts each and will be dealt with separately. They are accused of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the death last July 18 of the doctor's socialite wife, Barbara Jean. She was shot through the back outside the elegant Finch home in suburban West Covina.

The prosecution asked a first-degree murder conviction for both defendants. If the verdict is first degree murder or conspiracy, the same jury will meet later to decide the penalty. If the jurors' verdict is second degree murder, the judge decides the penalty.

The jurors have the alternatives on count 1 of finding the defendants guilty of first-degree murder, guilty of second-degree murder, or innocent of murder. On count 2 the options

Sens. Hubert Humphrey, left, and John F. Kennedy shake hands and flash their best campaign smiles at a victory dinner Friday night at the state Democratic convention in Hutchinson, Kan. Here are Tips to Follow Preparing for House Trip

First Step in Planning Tour Of Europe Is to Get Passport

A flurry of requests for more information has been received at the Mary Ebben Travel Service in Appleton after original announcements of a 23-day European Tour were made by the Post-Crescent earlier this week.

The tour, to be conducted in mid-July, will be taken by 75 persons and Post-Crescent Columnist Charles House.

Such questions as "Will I need a passport?", "Can I remain in Europe after the tour and come home later?" and others on costs, time, conveniences and transportation are being asked of the travel service.

Going to Europe can be easy.

Much red tape has been cut since World War II, but it is not yet as simple as hopping on a plane and flying away.

Skill in making preparations for your "great adventure," a 2-week holiday in Europe, enables the travel agent to make things simple for the traveler, whether one is a seasoned tourist or a beginner.

However, there are a few things the traveler must do for himself. Among the first is to get a passport.

The passport probably is the most important document you'll ever acquire, with the possible exception of your birth certificate. It identifies you in any foreign country as a citizen of the United States entitled to the full protection of your government.

Carry Documents

For that reason it, and all other travel documents, should always be carried with you, free of other papers. It must be ready for immediate showing. It never should be placed in luggage.

A passport is easy to get if you follow the simplified suggestions put together by Scandinavian Airlines system. You must apply in person. Your travel agent suggests you make application at least two months before you leave. This will give the state department the time it needs to make any investigation it wishes.

Rounding up a few easily obtained articles and having them with you will make the process of application easy.

The things you'll need include:

1-Proof of United States citizenship.

2-Identifying witness or document.

3-Two recent duplicate photographs either 2 1/2 by 3 1/2 or 3 by 3 inches on thin paper.

4-A $10 bill or check.

Proof of Citizenship may be a birth certificate, naturalization papers or an out-dated passport. A baptismal record or a notarized affidavit from a parent or older relative may be substituted if it shows the date and place of birth.

All documents should be officially signed or stamped. Unauthenticated papers are accepted only in most unusual cases.

Photos Simple

An identifying witness may be any citizen of the United States who is more than 21 and can identify himself with a driver's license or other official paper. It is not usual to require such a witness when an applicant can show naturalization papers, a driver's license or identification card from a government, business or industrial agency. Such papers must bear the description and signature of the applicant.

Photographs may be gotten easily from almost any professional photographer, most of whom know the requirements for size and thickness of paper. They should picture you full-face against a light background. Issuance Fee of $10 is standard. It should be paid with the first application. Some courts charge up to $2 extra for the service.

These items should be taken to the nearest U.S. federal court or to a state court authorized to naturalize aliens. To persons unacquainted with courts, the location of such an office can be puzzling. Your travel agent will check over your material and send you to the nearest office. By calling on him first you may save yourself many hours of trouble or even repeated trips to the courthouse.

If you are not a citizen of the United States you will need a passport or certificate of identity. If you plan to remain out of the country less than a year, you will need an alien registration card. If you plan to remain out of the United States more than a year, a re-entry permit will be needed instead of the alien registration card.

Vaccination Record

Getting a visa, which is the permission of a foreign government to visit its country, has been greatly simplified by most governments since the last war, and in some cases none is needed for short visits. Rules concerning visas change frequently.

One more document is needed both to leave the United States and return. It is the international certificate of vaccination signed by your doctor and a representative of your local board of health.

Each community has its own method of issuing such cards. Many provide both the card and the necessary smallpox vaccination as a public service.

For the convenience of persons interested in complete details about the Post-Crescent European Tour, a handy request blank is printed elsewhere on this page.

Village Reports $2,687 Check From Liquor Tax

Kimberly — A check for $2,687 from the state, representing the village's share of liquor tax receipts for the last six months of 1959 was received recently, according to an announcement by Mrs. Paul Lochschmidt, clerk-treasurer.

Last August the village received a check for $2,376 making the total $5,063. Estimated receipts in the budget for 1959 were $4,000 for liquor tax. The amount is $866 more than received at the same time in 1959.

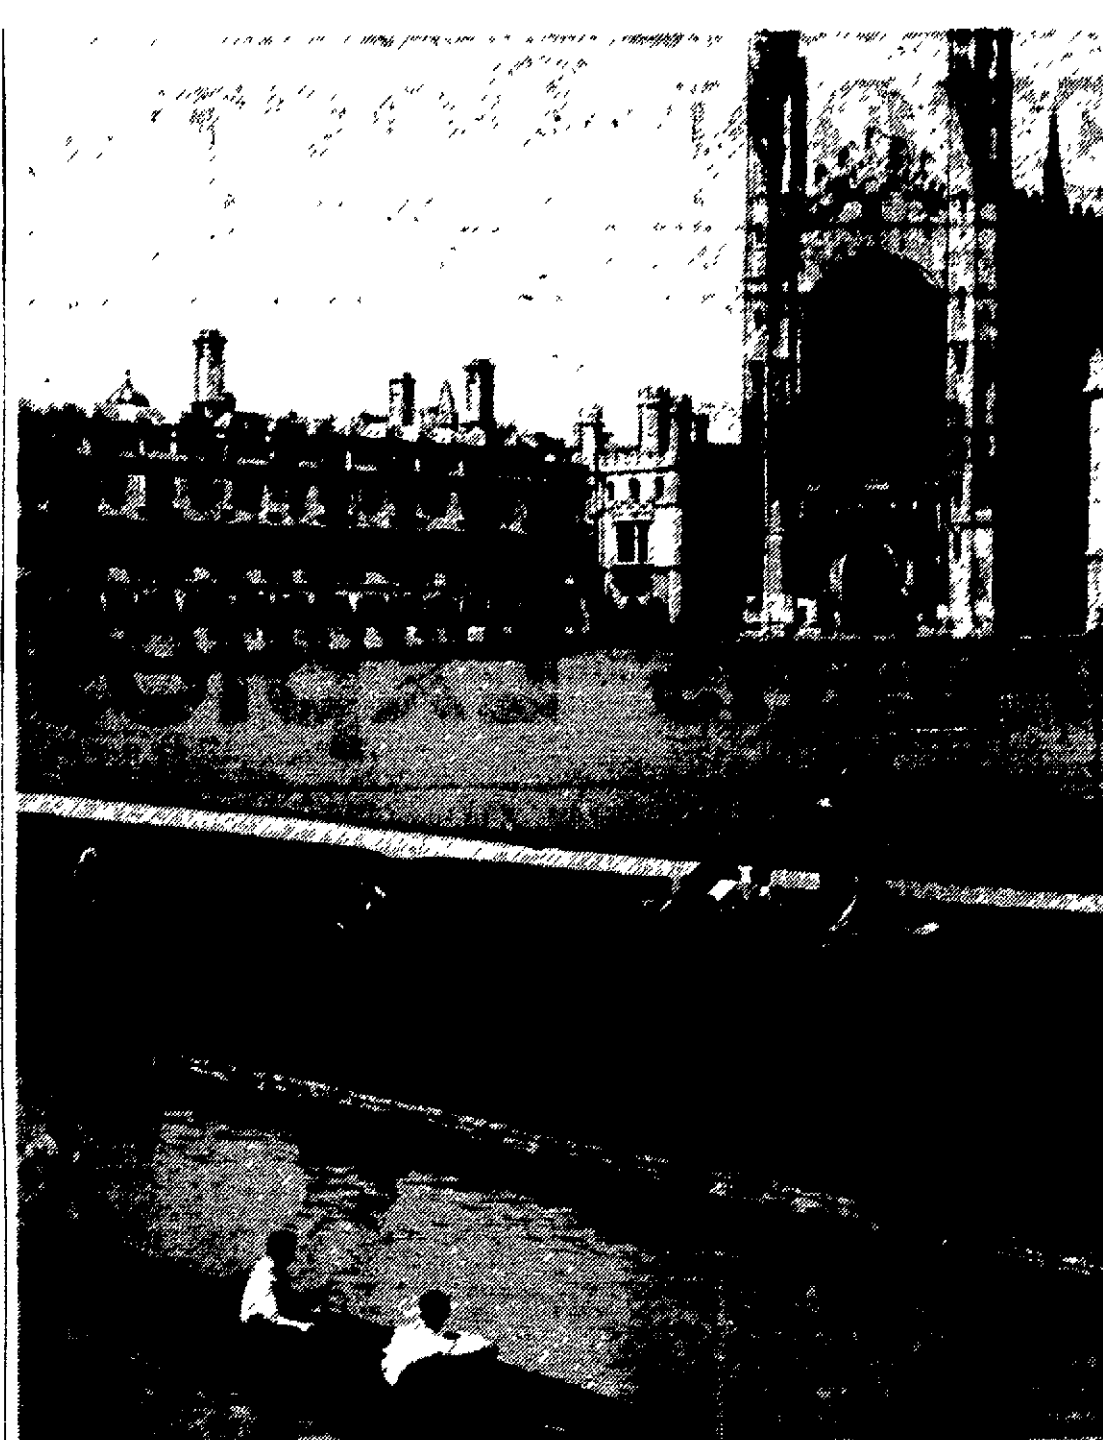

The 1960 budget, anticipating the increase in liquor taxes, lists estimated receipts of $4,500.

Guest Night to Be Sponsored By Legion Women

Little Chute — The executive board of the American Legion auxiliary made plans for a guest night pot-luck supper and silent auction to be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the village hall.

A nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. Casey Van Bortel, Mrs. Sylvan Lamers, Mrs. Richard Kilsdonk, Mrs. Robert Hartjes and Mrs. John Evers, was appointed.

Reservations for the county council dinner at Kimberly March 15 will be accepted at the meeting after the supper.

Smooth Lawns and Graceful architecture combine to make the campus at Cambridge a sight that tourists never forget. Wisconsin residents who accompany Post-Crescent Columnist Charlie House to Europe this summer will see the institution and other outstanding sights in England and eight other countries. Details about the tour and reservations are available at the Mary Ebben Travel Service, Appleton.

Homemaker Clubs Adopt Community Service Project

Kaukauna — Not content to rest after winning three state homemaker awards for community service, members of the two local clubs have adopted a new project called "Do For Others."

The clubs have been honored for their baby sitting clinics each year. Since one of the objectives of Homemakers is to give homemakers the opportunity for self expression in all phases of homemaking, Mrs. Martin Britten and Mrs. James DeGoey, project chairmen, arranged with committees a program in which all members could participate.

After extensive preparation the project got underway in December. Through personal calls to administrators at Riverside general hospital, St. Paul's home, the Rose Rest home and Kaukauna Community hospital, women offered such services as sewing, mending, signing cards, writing letters and furnishing transportation.

Needs Reported — Homemakers learned bed jackets and foot warmers could be used, prizes were needed for games played at the institutions and birthday cakes would be appreciated for special occasions. Administrators granted club members the privilege of helping those confined.

At the Christmas meeting Homemakers did not exchange gifts but brought gifts to the convalescing and aging members in three institutions. A January sewing workshop at the Kaukauna Vocational school had members making several dozen bed jackets and foot warmers.

Almost weekly a cake is baked for a patient at Riverside, often a Homemaker, other than the one doing the baking is recruited to deliver the cake. Homemade cookies are sometimes sent as a special treat and tray favors made for special days.

Transportation to church is arranged when needed and many volunteers have assisted in sending Christmas cards or writing letters since the project was started.

Homemakers keep a record of services performed, the date carried out and the person doing the work, thus the same Homemaker is not contacted too often. Each Homemaker attempts to work with the committee in which she can be of greatest service.

The clubs recently headed the house to house Heart Fund effort, another of their many undertakings of a community nature. Efforts such as these help keep the membership interested and active in Homemaking, its ideals and the community life in general.

Father, Son in Hospital After Tank Valve Breaks

Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — Two employees of the Larsen company were hospitalized Friday after they were overcome by ammonia fumes which escaped from a 5,000-gallon storage tank on the plant's second floor.

The firemen were taken to the main station, and within a short time two of them were able to return to the scene of the action.

The two Larsen company employees overcome by the leaking gas fumes were Harvey Wishart, 56, of 524 N. Broadway, and his son, Gordon, 32, Oneida road. The men were employed in the cold storage room.

Igloo-Shaped Church Built in New Town North of Arctic Circle

Inuvik, N.W.T., Canada — — ON — Amateur Architect — — ON — Brother Maurice Larocque has designed and built an igloo-shaped church in this new town on the Mackenzie river delta, 120 miles north of the Arctic circle.

The Rev. Joseph Adam, Roman Catholic priest at the townsite started in 1953, says he thinks "the design is going to become a classic." One engineer said the church will last 200 years.

No Architect
When Brother Larocque sent blueprints of the church to Ottawa, federal architects sent them back. They didn't understand them. However, the church of Our Lady of the Arctic now is nearing completion even though the building permit hasn't been issued yet.

Brother Larocque is a shy Quebecer who came to the Arctic 30 years as a mission carpenter and stayed to build many of the missions and churches which the Oblate order maintains in the north. Father Adam says: "He is no architect, but he knows more about architecture than many architects."

"If what looks all right on the blueprints doesn't look so good in practice why, you just tear it out and start over."

"They couldn't understand brother Larocque's blueprints in Ottawa, and they tried to stop us from building because the brother isn't an architect. But the bishop had the building inspected by an engineering consultant, and he says it will last 200 years."

The domed church is 75 feet in diameter and 62 feet from the ground to the tip of its illuminated cross. It is designed to seat 350 people.

Most buildings erected on the permanently-frozen tundra of the Arctic stand on pillars driven deep into the permafrost. Not the church.

Aluminum Shingles
"No one can tell for sure if those pillars are going to heave or not," says Father Adam. "That's why we settled on a round base and a full, reinforced concrete basement. If we build a church with a steeple and the pillars start to heave, it's going to fall down."

Now, if this building settles six inches on one side, it won't show — and we can always jack it up and make it level again."

The dome is covered with aluminum shingles which, in reflecting light, give the appearance of an ice dome. It is supported by a series of laminated wooden arches that are narrow at the bottom and nearly 10 feet wide at the top. There are 12 main arches, 24 secondary arches and 72 small arches.

Glass Design
The arches maintain a symmetrical dome from the outside while allowing for a ceiling inside which provides an insulating air space.

The base of the dome is girded by a laminated belt of 2 x 10-inch lumber. The roof is covered inside and out with laminated shiplap.

"It's like the construction of a basket and it can't burst open," says Father Adam.

Construction is being carried out by Brother Larocque and a crew of seven men aided by volunteers.

An old French method will be employed for illuminated windows by which hand-painted designs on translucent paper are sandwiched between two panes of glass.

The POWER of FAITH

Lent Commemorates Christ's 40 days and 40 nights in the wilderness.

Once upon a time I spent a night at the traditional site of Christ's temptation in a monastery high on the cliffs of Mount Temptation in Jordan. The monks there had told me not to come while it was dark because there were dangerous hyenas that sometimes attacked men and donkeys. I saw tracks of hyenas, heard those barks, and learned that snakes also infested those crags. Climbing them, my knees buckled as we skirted awesome cliffs dropping away from the holy site.

It was in this stark setting, the monks will tell you, that Christ resisted the temptation of all the kingdoms of the world to "worship the Lord thy God."

Millionaire Shoe Maker Dead at 73

New London — "I've never made wealth my goal," David P. Wohl often said, but he made and gave away millions.

The retired shoe manufacturer died of cancer at his home in Clayton, Mo., a St. Louis suburb. He was 73.

Wohl's philanthropies were reckoned at more than $8 million. He once gave Washington university a million, no strings attached. He also was generous with St. Louis university, a Roman Catholic school. One of his favorite beneficiaries was the Jewish orthodox home for old folks.

How did he make his money? It was quite simple, he would have you believe. He once said:

"The dollars I have accumulated are simply the logical reward that will come to any man who makes business a serious thing and has 'the breaks'."

Words for Lent

The Golden Dust

BY CHARLES M. CROWE

BY CHARLES M. CROWE

"As for the earth... The stones of it are the place of sapphires: and it hath dust of gold." Job 28:5,6

Most housewives find sweeping a chore and dust completely useless. But it is a different story in a certain factory in Chicago. It is a place where phonograph needles are made. The dust from the floor looks just like ordinary dirt but it is expensive stuff. It contains microscopic waste from diamonds and sapphires and is worth about $300,000 a year.

Most of this valuable material is recovered from the floor sweepings. Even the janitors are bonded!

Here is a parable of life itself. Job reminds us that the earth is stocked with sapphires and gold dust. But often plain rocks that we thought were useless become extremely valuable. Like those that contained uranium ore and the borax used for missile fuel.

It is so in the affairs of the day. Many common things have hidden values that we overlook. Sweeping itself may be a burden; but a clean home is a benediction to the spirit.

Tag ends of time may seem of no consequence; but they are full of opportunities for growth and service. Words can be blessed or ugly; they also can bless and cheer. Some people may seem ordinary but hidden inside them is a heart of gold. God has stocked our world with sapphires and gold. There are treasures for us all even in the most unlikely places.

Read: Job 28:1-13

PRAYER: Open our eyes, our Father, to the values of the spirit that lie hidden in the commonplace of everyday. In Christ's name, Amen.

Get the Children Out of the Fields

The state industrial commission proposes to issue an order setting 12 years as the minimum age at which children can work in agriculture in Wisconsin. We suspect that many people will be surprised that the commission should only now be getting around to issuing such an order; one would have thought that in this progressive state a minimum age for agricultural workers would have been set up long ago.

The fact is, however, that Wisconsin's child labor laws do not apply to agriculture. The chief result of this omission has been the employment in our fields and orchards of children as young as seven or eight years, almost all of them members of the thousands of migrant families who come to Wisconsin in the harvest seasons. Most of these people are American citizens of Mexican descent who follow the crops north from Texas; a few are Mexican nationals, American Negroes or citizens of the British West Indies.

The problem is more than one of the exploitation of child labor. Because of the nature of their parents' work, these children receive very little formal education. In the first place, Wisconsin researchers have found, Texas has very lax requirements concerning their education, and the authorities in that state show little concern over the problem. And since these families start moving north in the early spring and move from region to region as they follow the crops, it is very difficult to work out any program under which the children can receive coordinated and continuous schooling.

Wisconsin educational authorities, working with a special state migrant committee, have been studying this problem for some years and are trying to set up some educational facilities for these children; that was one reason why a bill was introduced in the fall session of the Legislature to provide state aid for school districts that institute summer sessions. But before these children can be sent to school they must be gotten out of the fields, and in many cases their parents insist that the children work alongside the older members of the family to swell the family's earnings. This brought about the pressure on the industrial commission for an order setting a minimum wage in agricultural work.

Undoubtedly a side effect of such an order would be to push up the wages received by the adult migrants, since some of the families may well refuse to come to Wisconsin at present wage levels if their young children are not permitted to contribute to the family's earnings. But of course any such restriction in any field of labor tends to have this effect, and we see no reason why agriculture should be exempt from such basic standards imposed by society in the name of simple human decency.

The labor of young children, of whatever color or nationality, should not be exploited in Wisconsin. The industrial commission's proposed order is a good one, and we hope it will be in effect for the coming harvest season.

The Oldsters Are Helping Themselves

While there is a move on in Congress to "do something for the older people" the older people have been doing pretty well for themselves, according to a bulletin published by the Institute of Life Insurance of New York.

During the four years from 1954 to 1958, the annual income of residents of the United States 65 years and over has increased by at least $6 billion and now is in the neighborhood of $30 billion, according to the bulletin. The number of persons over 65 increased from 13.5 million in 1954 to over 15 million.

It is significant that approximately $2 out of every $3 of this income still is the result of voluntary action on the part of the recipients. While the old folks were receiving in 1958 from $10.5 to $11 billion from public sources such as Social Security and public assistance, they were receiving from $17.5 billion to $23 billion from private sources. The private income was made up from employment about $9.5 to $10.5 billion, private pension plans and individual annuities $1.5 billion, other savings and investment programs from $3.5 to $8 billion and income in kind, which is largely home ownership, about $3 billion.

The figures quoted were compiled by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It is interesting to note that the practice of saving still is an important feature in the individual's preparation for retirement and old age. Private pension plans and individual annuities are rapidly gaining in importance as a part of the income for persons over 65. In the period from 1954 to 1958 income from these sources jumped from approximately $800 million to an estimated $1.5 billion. Nearly 1.25 million pensioners were benefiting from private plans in 1958. It is estimated that 19 million active workers now have coverage under insured and non-insured pension and retirement plans. Thus about 45 per cent of all persons on civilian payrolls outside of agriculture and government have such benefits.

Likewise, the public programs have, practically doubled the benefits they paid during this 4-year period. The increase is reported to be from $5.9 billion in 1954 to a range of from $10.5 billion to $11 billion in 1958. About three-fifths of this amount comes from the Old Age and Survivors Benefits and the remainder is contributed by such programs as Railroad Retirement, government employees retirement, veterans programs and like assistance.

The figures quoted indicate that while the over-65 group had the equivalent of 6.7 per cent of the total personal income before taxes in 1954, the same group had from 7 to 8.6 per cent of the total personal income before taxes in 1958. Thus the oldsters gained somewhat on the rest of the population in the state of growth of aggregate income in that period. In addition, they had several special tax advantages.

On the other hand, they had to contend with the unfavorable factor of inflation. The living costs rose by more than 20 per cent during the 1950s which was a severe blow to those who had retired on fixed pensions. It should be noted also that the income from employment gained from $9 billion in 1954 to the range of $9.5 billion to $10.5 billion in 1958. This was the smallest gain registered in the various sources of income and that is unquestionably due to the restriction on the earnings of persons retired under the Social Security program. While Congress is talking about big spending to help the aged it should be noted that big spending means more inflation which is easily recognized as one of the greatest enemies of retired persons. This study indicates that the best thing Congress could do for the aged would be to halt inflation and the resulting rise in the cost of living and liberalize the terms under which the healthy oldsters might earn more money.

Who Did What and Why?

There has been more information as to the part played by various federal agencies in holding up the execution of Caryl Chessman last month.

Early in December the Uruguayan ambassador, Julio Lacarte, delivered a note to the State Department about his concern over Uruguayan reaction to the proposed execution. The message, which originated in Montevideo, suggested that students might stage riots and other demonstrations and make it uncomfortable for President Eisenhower during his March visit.

A few days before the reprieve a former State Department official reportedly phoned a number of officers asking who was best informed about foreign reaction to the execution. George Allen, director of the U. S. Information Agency, was the choice of most called. Certainly it is a prime business of the USIA to know about foreign public opinion although exactly what it is supposed to do with the information is vague. Twenty-four hours before the execution was scheduled, California's attorney general called Mr. Allen to tell him about the number of foreign letters requesting clemency. Mr. Allen said that "commutation of the sentence would improve relations abroad" according to the attorney general. But apparently Mr. Allen did not contact the State Department although the attorney general seems to have hoped that he would. The wire to Gov. Brown from Roy Rubottom, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, was sent a few hours before the governor announced the stay of execution.

And so the efforts of a foreign country, two departments of the executive department of the federal government and the lack of confidence of state officials of California combined to by-pass the legal police power of a sovereign state in favor of a man convicted by due process of law.

The Uruguayan students? Oh, they rioted anyway.

Men Apt to Find Lipstick More Dangerous

From The Greenville (S.C.) News

Congress is in a minor uproar over the question of whether the color additives in women's lipstick is dangerous to health. We hope they settle it soon, for lady is apt to be a bit pale if the lawmakers and the industry can't agree on what is safe and lawful and what isn't.

Leonor K. Sullivan, who wears a bright scarlet shade of lipstick, is urging passage of a law which would prohibit the sale of certain shades of lipstick on the grounds that they aren't safe.

A spokesman for the industry says the stuff isn't dangerous. To get hurt, he says, one would have to eat 100 lipsticks a day. The lady congressman comes back and says, of course, it is true that women don't eat their lipstick, but those who claim the material is safe don't use it.

Well, as usual, the truth probably lies in the middle somewhere. Fact is, men probably eat most of the lipstick that gets eaten and we'll hazard the guess that it is safer to eat the lipstick than to get caught kissing the wrong woman.

New Hampshire Votes Tuesday As Race Opens

BY BELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

For two reasons, a state primary can be an extremely important event in the year when Americans elect a president.

In the first place, the primary may be a political weather vane pointing the direction of voter sentiment. In the second, it often has a powerful psychological impact on the national nominating conventions; it may start one band wagon rolling and effectively put the brakes on another.

Thus, little New Hampshire is often a big state, politically, in a presidential year.

It is always the first of 16 state elections. This year, it is to be held March 8.

Watched Closely

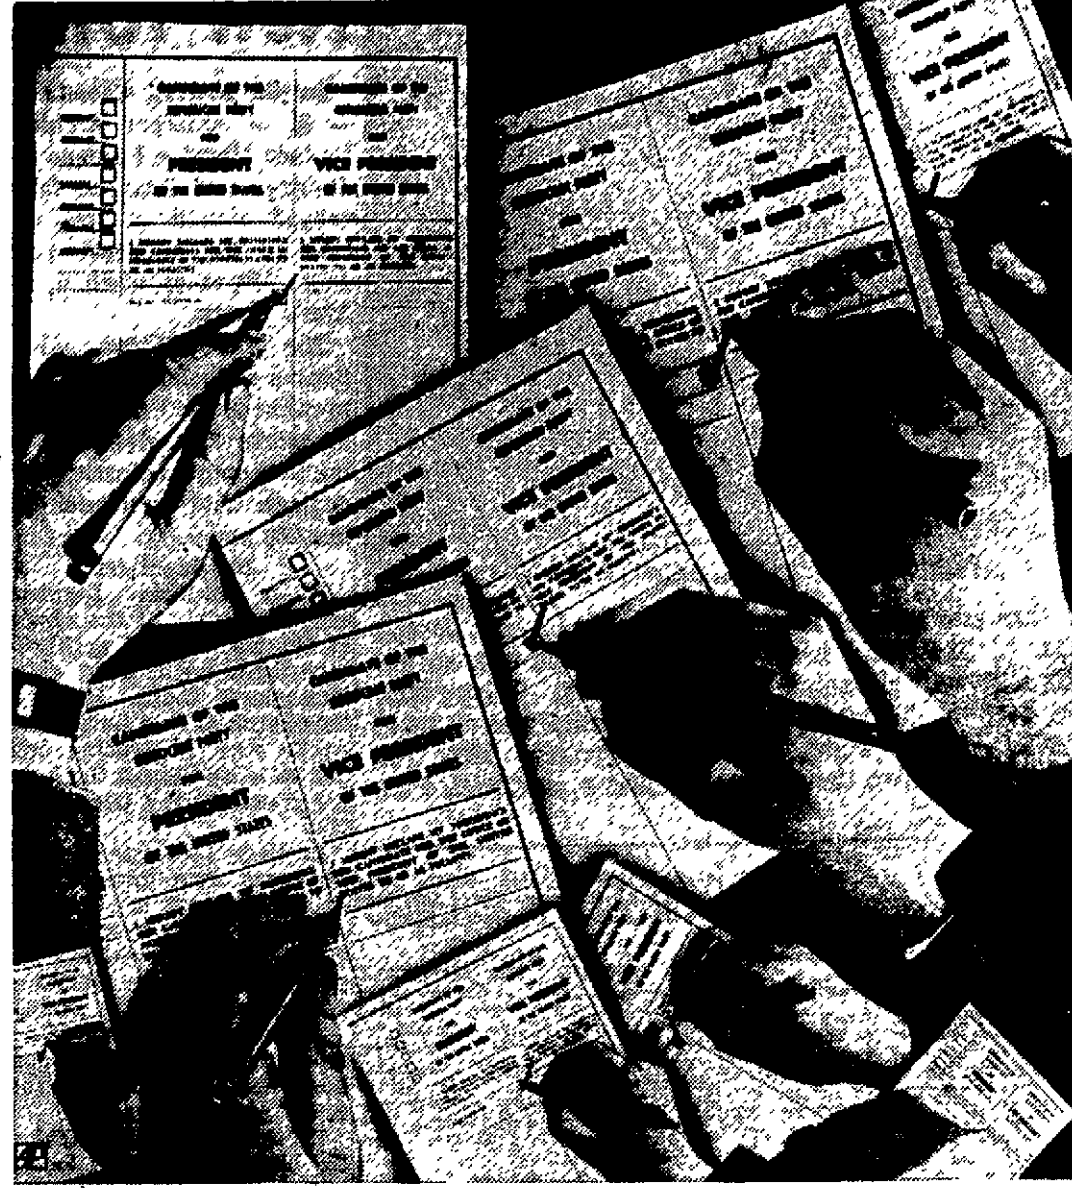

As the first, it attracts more attention than its size would warrant if the election were held later. Politicians — party leaders, candidates, delegates and would-be delegates in other states — carefully analyze the returns from New Hampshire.

Twice, in the immediate past, New Hampshire voters gave the professionals something to talk about.

In 1952, they expressed a marked preference for a man who was an x-factor in the political equation and was not even in the United States at the time — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. His opponent was the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, who campaigned hard around the state.

Again in 1956, the voters cast a surprising write-in vote — totaling 23,000 — for Vice President Nixon. It went a long way toward squelching the "dump-Nixon" movement, initiated by Harold E. Stassen. Stassen had claimed that surveys showed Nixon would hurt the Republican chances if he were named as Eisenhower's running mate.

Here's the way the New

Mark Your Choice. The argument over the effectiveness of presidential primaries will be debated again this year as persons in 17 primary states and the District of Columbia mark their ballots.

Hampshire primary shapes up this year:

It is actually two elections, Republican and Democratic, held simultaneously. Party members cannot "cross over," that is, the law does not permit Republicans to vote for Democrats and vice versa.

The state will send 14 GOP delegates to the national nominating convention. There are 20 to be elected to the Democratic convention, each with a half-vote.

Contending for the 14 Republican seats are 37 candidates, 28 favorable to Nixon, six for New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and one each for Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and Lar (America First) Daly, a perennial candidate.

In the Democratic election, 45 persons are contending for the 20 seats. The Democratic ballot breaks down like this:

20 Pledged to Kennedy
Twenty are pledged to Sen. John F. Kennedy, of Massachusetts; another 16 are running as "favorable" to him, the result of an intra-party fight.

There are five running "favorable" to Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, two running uncommitted, and one each "favorable" to Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate in 1952 and 1956.

But the delegate contests are only half of the New Hampshire election.

On the right hand side of the ballot is the presidential preference column — otherwise known as the "beauty contest."

There, the voter casts his ballot, not for a delegate pledged or "favorable" to a candidate, but for the candidate himself. It was here in 1956 that the 23,000 wrote in Nixon's name.

This year, two names are in the Democratic "beauty contest," Kennedy's and that of Paul Fisher, Chicago manufacturer.

The Republican ballot has only the name of Nixon.

To be in the "beauty contest," a candidate must give written authorization to his supporters to put him on the ballot. Humphrey, Stevenson, Symington, Rockefeller, Lodge, and Dr. Eisenhower did not give this authorization.

Their names, however, may be written in the "beauty contest."

Thus, considerable interest centers this year on two questions relating to the ballot —

The Big Questions

First, will any of the delegate-candidates running as "favorable" to men not on the ballot be elected in preference to those who back the candidates officially on the ballot? That is, will any of Kennedy's backers be defeated by delegate-candidates "favorable" to the other Democrats? And will any of those favoring Rockefeller defeat those running as favorable to Nixon?

Second, will there be any sizable write-in votes in the "beauty contest" for men whose names are not printed on the ballot?

If Kennedy and Nixon win easily in their respective elections, political analysts will have little to study.

They may, however, find some food for thought in another aspect of the voting.

New Hampshire is a Republican state. Usually, the GOP vote in the primary is twice as big as the Democratic total, or more. This year, Kennedy's supporters are working hard to narrow the margin between the total votes cast for the two parties.

They hope that this will demonstrate Kennedy's vote-getting power — with the desired effect on Democrats all over the country.

For the same reason, Nixon's backers are out to roll up a vote for him which will maintain the traditional margin between the parties.

Wisconsin Democrats Still Remember Adlai

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — One of the confounding elements of the Wisconsin Democratic presidential delegate contest to the small army of visiting writers now coming into the state is the evident underlayer of backing for the renomination of Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

Wyngaard

An objective appraisal of the Democratic national situation might lead to the conclusion that the 1952 and 1956 nominee is gradually losing his status as a dark horse in the 1960 situation, in the utter absence of any effort on his own behalf.

But there remain in influential positions in the Wisconsin Democratic community, and especially among the opinion makers among the Madison liberals, a quality of loyalty and hope that the visiting correspondents unfailingly emphasize — perhaps to a greater degree than its significance warrants.

Among these people the Humphrey-Kennedy struggle here is benevolently regarded as a kind of sideshow, a noisy effort really signifying very little. When the dust settles at Los Angeles, they say, the convention again will turn to the standard-bearer of the last two campaigns.

THE MEANING

One result of this feeling is that some of the more prominent and influential Democrats are removed from the current delegate campaign altogether.

Another is that some of the participants, on both sides of the Kennedy-Humphrey fight, are only nominally involved. They have felt for one reason and another that they cannot afford to ignore it. But they have reservations, private or otherwise, that make them something less than wholehearted about their work. Some of them have made their reservations public. There is no politician now rising in this state who keeps in closer touch with the ebb and flow of political opinion than Atty. Gen. John Reynolds. He is in the Kennedy camp and was regarded there as a real catch. But he has publicly said he hopes Stevenson is not out of the running for the convention nomination, which is the equivalent of saying that Kennedy is really his second choice.

This reservoir of sentimental attachment to the defeated leader of the last two battles may be more important in Madison and environs than in the rest of the state. It is the more conspicuous here also because of the influence of the capital city on the coverage of Wisconsin political news.

Madison's strategic position in news dissemination may be unfortunate, but it is a reality. The existence hereabouts of a distinct and hard core of regretful Stevenson fans is likely to make the public image of the April balloting here less decisive as between the candidates actually in the ring than it would otherwise be.

"Resolved, That Stephen A. Douglas is the choice of the Democracy of Wisconsin for President of the United States.

"Resolved, That the entire vote of Wisconsin be cast as a unit for Stephen A. Douglas at Charleston."

The Convention then divided into three committees, one for each congressional district, and elected their delegates to the Charleston convention. P. H. Smith, Fred W. Horn, Ozaukee county, E. S. Bragg, Fond du Lac, and John Fitzgerald, Winnebago, were elected delegates from the Third district.

The Best of American Heritage

The Gibson Girl: Prim, Bewitching

BY AGNES ROGERS
In the dear, nostalgic days of the 1890's and early 1900's a vibrant, radiant young woman took the country by storm. She was the Gibson Girl, a brilliant invention. She was lovely, animated, and unquestionably American. And today, though four change-filled decades have passed, more men are still in love with her than you might think.

America's first beauty queens would be appalled at the scantily-clad Miss America contenders of today. For the Gibson Girl, regal and romantic, swept through turn-of-the-century society in shirtwaist and ankle-length skirt, amid worshipful sighs from men. Strictly upper-class, she was first and foremost a lady, described here by an eminent author and editor.

lic entertainers and of the attention of the press. A lady's name appeared in newspapers just three times: when she was born, when she married, and when she died. That society stoutly resisted the idea that wealth and position are synonymous, confident that in itself it represented all that was best and most important in American life. And many people of less exalted position agreed. It is hard to realize how widespread was the interest in the doings of the socially prominent and how faithfully bright and not highly educated. She was not politically informed, and her social conscience, in present-day terms, was dormant. She could not cook or manage a home, nor did she resemble today's pin-up girl, whose charms are so candidly revealed.

She Was Femininity

Yet even now she evokes worshipful sighs from men too young ever to have known anything resembling her. One reason is that she was femininity incarnate without being sexy. And nowadays, when sex is portrayed in such blatant detail, it is refreshing to be given the promise of future raptures rather than play-by-play accounts of bedroom romps.

In any discussion of the Gibson Girl there is a word, now taboo, that one cannot avoid. She was a lady. In fact, John Ames Mitchell, founder of the original Life, explained that one of the reasons he accepted the first drawings of Charles Dana Gibson was that he could draw a lady. The Gibson Girl represents the rosier aspect of Society at a period in American life when society was more clearly defined, less complex, and far more admired that it is today. Gibson himself, by virtue of his birth, his engaging personality, and his agreeable manners, had the entree to New York's highest social circles and found the best it had to offer highly sympathetic. By "best" I mean a group of congenial people of established family, inherited wealth, and cultivated tastes, who employed their leisure in genuinely graceful (not "gracious") living.

Gibson's Society

The society that Gibson approved of, and in which he was most at home, was the old guard — scornful of pub-

the magazines reported them. The American public read avidly and respectfully of the "at home" given by Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt in Newport in 1902, where an illuminated mid-way had been set up with Negro dancers, a shooting gallery, singing girls, and other exhibits found in amusement parks, and at the far end, a theater where the New York cast and scenery of a current Broadway musical, The Wild Rose, had been transported for the evening

The Formal Dinner

The American public saw nothing to censure in the fact that several New York hostesses were able to serve a dinner for 100 guests on a few hours' notice — no informal buffet, but the customary 7- or 8-course affair with appropriate wines. Servants there were, to be sure, in task-force strength, some large country places being staffed by as many as 50 or 60. These entertainments were not paid for from expense accounts. The cost came from the host's private purse.

It was against this glittering background that the Gibson Girl — beautiful, queenly, confident — moved in triumph.

Yet, though her habitat was high society, she was the darling of the less affluent as well. She took the country by storm. In countless houses all over the land, prints of Gibson's drawings were hung on the walls and Gibson's long red picture books were on parlor tables. Manufacturers put "Gibson Girl" labels on all manner of women's clothes. Spoons, plates, even wall paper were ornamented with her face. Her serene likeness was burned — through the cunning craft of pyrography — into wood or leather table tops, glove boxes, and umbrella stands. Songs were written in her honor. Tableaux Vivants, a favorite entertainment at bazaars, were based on a series of Gibson drawings.

Much Imitated

And together with this nation-wide recognition of the Gibson Girl's charms came a tidal wave of emulation. Girls all over the country wanted to be as nearly like her as possible. They dressed like her; they wore their hair like her. Nor did the young men escape her influence. The Gibson man was usually clean-shaven and strong-jawed. Many a luxurious moustache was shaved off. The Gibson Girl was tall. Young men stood erect to gain inches.

He Idolized Her

Everybody agrees that the Gibson Girl connotes romance. Love, courtship, and marriage are the themes that engaged Gibson's liveliest interest. And he was truly romantic about his darling creation. It revolted him to think of a girl's being married off for money, especially to an old man, and this subject appears time after time. His fury was aroused also by those international alliances in which American dollars were exchanged for a foreign title.

It is often said that the American girl prior to World War I lived a pretty dull life and mostly indoors. Not so the Gibson Girl. As early as the 80's, we see her on the tennis court, on the golf links, on a bicycle, even driving a motor car. To be sure, when she went into the water at the seashore, she wore a decorous bathing suit (with the obligatory stockings.) But she wore no bathing cap. Either she never got her head under water or Gibson couldn't bear to hide her crowning glory.

Always Respectable

Actually, by the turn of the century, the outdoor life was an accepted thing in upper class circles, chiefly along the eastern seaboard. So, when Gibson put a racket or a niblick in his heroine's graceful hand, he was reflecting the mores of that small sector of the social scene that most interested him. In his preoccupation with romance, he was also quick to see that these games offered ideal situations for unchaperoned but wholly respectable association between the sexes. One of his best-known drawings, entitled "Is a Caddy Always Necessary?" depicts a young couple seated glumly on a bunker, hoping that their gangling young club carrier will realize their desire to be alone.

Oddly enough, when the Gay Nineties are revived to-day in revue skit or greeting card, the spectacle bears no resemblance to the Gibson Girl or her circle. All the men have handle-bar moustaches and the girls are made up as Sweet Rosie O'Grady or Mame O'Rourke. Very merry, very gay, but definitely low life. The Gibson Girl was just as definitely high life. Moreover, whereas these jovial modern revivals from the Bowery are comic valentines, the Gibson Girl defies caricature. She remains as she was created, immaculate and bewitching. To burlesque her would be sacrilege.

Bankers Hit Loan Group Exemptions

more revenue for the hard pressed state government.

"To put it crassly, we're interested in finding more money," he began.

But the bankers launched into a fierce denunciation of what they deemed as tax favoritism to their competitors, and a description of shrinking commercial credit in the state resulting from the drying up of bank deposits as savings are diverted into the more attractive tax exempt institutions.

Bank Catastrophe

"If you don't have equalization of taxes, you'll have a bank catastrophe that the public authorities made," said Carl Taylor, president of a Waukesha bank who said he is also a director of a big savings and loan association and is therefore intimately familiar with the financial operations of the latter business.

"It isn't moral, when the world is afire, to let the other pay taxes for your defense," he continued bitterly.

Taylor and others said building and loan associations are able to attract deposits today because they can pay far higher dividend rates through their tax exempt status.

Unfair Exemptions

Meanwhile the officers of the Wisconsin Bankers Association made clear that they were replying to a committee request, and not asking for revision in banking tax laws, when they offered a bill that would somewhat increase the income tax liability of the typical bank through reducing the deduction privilege now

Five Students Receive Wilson Scholarships

Graduate Awards Given Moltke Gram And Lawrentians

Four Lawrence college students and an Indiana university senior from Appleton have been awarded the coveted Woodrow Wilson fellowship for graduate study. One Lawrence student has been named to the honorable mention list.

Winners are Richard Bjornson, Maywood, Ill., a 1959 graduate who hopes to do work in English at Princeton university; Marilyn Low, Evanston, Ill., for art history at the Berkeley campus of the University of California; Donald Niemi, Watertown, political science at the University of Chicago; and Gerald Storz, Oneida, French at the University of Wisconsin.

On the honorable mention list was Charles Scruggs, Chicago, Ill., who plans to continue his study of English at Columbia university.

The Appleton winner is Moltke S. Gram, 114 N. Durkee street.

This is the second large group of Wilson fellowship winners to come from Lawrence in a single class. Last year's graduates captured five of the awards. Five Lawrentians from earlier years also have won the awards, for a total of 14 since the program was begun in 1945.

The Wilson foundation recruits and supports promising young scholars for their first year of graduate study, with the aim of providing more college teachers for the future. The awards carry a basic stipend of $1,500 plus family allowances and full costs of a year's graduate study in the United States or Canada. This year's winners come from 355 colleges selected from 8,800 applicants representing 681 institutions.

One unusual feature of the Wilson fellowships is that students may not apply directly for the award; they must be nominated by a faculty member. For this reason practically all candidates are superior students.

Of the Lawrence winners, one has already won a major scholarship for next year. Donald Niemi has been notified that he will study at the Institute of Political Studies in Paris, France, a Rotary grant. In the past it has been possible to defer the Wilson award until foreign study is completed.

Lawrence already has profited from the Wilson program. Neenah Fry, '53, one of its first alumnae to win such an award, is on the history faculty this year. She has been doing her graduate work at Yale university.

Ogdensburg Woman Succumbs at 93

Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, 93, Ogdensburg, died at 10:30 a. m. Friday at Waupaca after a long illness. She was born March 10, 1866, in Waupaca county.

March 26 Date for Annual Game Club Fisherman's Party

Over 200 Prizes to be Awarded; Movies, Entertainment on Tap

The Outagamie County Conservation club will sponsor its 23rd annual fisherman's party Saturday, March 26, at the Appleton High school auditorium.

Jim Kranzusch is general chairman of this year's event which will feature a slogan contest and over 200 prizes. Major prizes will be two outboard motors and a boat.

A star-studded revue headed by Singer Leo Rohan and ventriloquist Robert Neller tops a bright entertainment program.

Appearing with Rohan and Neller will be the "Ranchettes," James Schavet and Mary Dorschner, both of Menasha, and Magician Jack Staley.

Neller is one of the Fox Cities' best known entertainers and has a nation-wide reputation as a fine performer. His companion, "Reggie," is a work of art. Manipulated with 12 manual controls, Reggie can offer nearly 5,000 different facial expressions.

Rohan, too, is well known in area entertainment circles. He has been recording artist as well as doing radio and television work.

Staley, convention and exhibit supervisor for Kimberly-Clark corporation, has presented his shows of magic in all of the major cities of the United States and in Canada, Mexico and the Philippines.

The "Ranchettes," have competed in music festival contests throughout this area and in the All-American accordion contest in New York City where they received a superior rating.

Leading off the program will be an hour of organ music.

Music starting at 6:30 p.m. Kranzusch will present an address of welcome on behalf of the Conservation club at 7:30.

Ray Block, master of ceremonies, will take over at this point and introduce Outagamie county conservation Warden Chuck Wranosky.

Neller and the Ranchettes are scheduled to appear next on the program followed by several conservation department movies.

Rohan's act is scheduled next followed by a combination specialty by Staley, Neller and Rohan. Another outdoor movie will be presented prior to the awarding of prizes at 9:30.

Party tickets are available from all members of the conservation club and at sporting goods stores, taverns and some restaurants in Appleton, Kaukauna, Black Creek, and Shiocton.

One of the Biggest Sturgeon taken from Lake Winnebago this year was this one displayed by Richard Evers, route 3, Appleton. It weighed 97 pounds and was 70 inches long. Evers speared the fish midway through the season while fishing just off Stockbridge harbor. It was a personal record for him. He has speared other sturgeon but this one was the largest.

Reservation Loses On Fishing Season

Permit Sales Fail to Overcome $9,078 Cost, Report Reveals

Keshena—The first year of brought a substantial loss to licensed fishing within the Menominee tribe, according to a report nominee Indian reservation by the Menominee fishing non-reservation sportmen permit and control committee.

The Indians opened up their reservation to permit fishing by outsiders for the first time in many years.

The result was a permit sale income of $4,866 and a total cost of $9,078, for a net loss of $4,212, according to the report filed by Hilary Waukau, committee chairman.

1960 Fees
The committee also won approval for a schedule of permit fees to be in effect for 1960, and some changes in the rules for fishing.

Trout fishing will cost five dollars a day per person, $20 per week per person, or $50 for the season.

Lake fishing will cost $2.00 per day per person, $10 for a week, $35.00 per season per family, or $20.00 per week per family.

Free Camping
Free camping will be permitted for boy scout troops at certain sites in exchange for cleaning up of beach and camp sites, and landing nets are no longer prohibited.

Spinning equipment will be permitted on all of the Wolf river within the reservation and on the south branch of the Oconto river from the Camp 23 bridge to the east reservation boundary.

On Feb. 24, 1960, an aerial count of fishing shanties on Lake Winnebago was made and 1,417 shanties were counted. This was a drop of 64 shanties from the preceding year.

Forty spearmen qualified for a $10 reward by registering a tagged sturgeon. The sturgeon with the oldest tag was tagged on Aug. 7, 1954, in Lake Winnebago by the state's rough fish crew at Calumet Harbor.

If you're concerned at all about the welfare of the wild things which live in Wisconsin's woods and fields you have to consider March as a killer month.

Probably at no other time in the year are conditions so difficult for birds and animals. If recent history repeats, the snow will come deep and heavy. Winds will howl like wounded tigers and all living things in the woods will begin playing a treacherous game. At stake will be their lives.

There are some sportsmen who choose to help improve the lot of these wild things during difficult times by setting up and stocking feeders.

One of these is Andrew J. Mueller, 1702 N. Clark street. Andy is a colleague of mine. He's chief of this newspaper's photography department, a good friend and a fine sportsman.

Andy does his hunting with a camera. He is not concerned with taking wildlife as much as preserving it. And preserve it he does on film and in fact.

He is a conservationist of the first order and it's too bad there aren't more like him. Andy owns some land up on the Pine river. He makes many trips there, through the winter, particularly when the weather is bad.

He has built many feeders in both the box and teepee style. And most important of all he keeps them stocked.

We have discussed his feeding operation many times and I am impressed by his interest in the project. He is concerned, for instance, in the type of feed the birds want and he goes to great lengths to provide it for them.

It isn't necessary to be as complete about a feeding project as is Andy Mueller. The important thing is to provide some kind of feed and shelter. Every man who hunts should look upon it as a personal responsibility. Unfortunately, few do.

That's why it's refreshing to see a man like Andy do the things he's doing.

The woods are full of men whose only desire is to kill. We need more who want to save and protect.

Elimination of Panfish Limits Certain to Stay

The elimination of the bag limit for the fishing of panfish ordered last year by the state conservation commission is almost certain to be a permanent feature of the state sports fishing regulations.

Dr. E. W. Schneberger, chief of the state fisheries division, told the commission in his annual report that the liberal rule is justified by years of study in test waters and special demonstrations that "showed conclusively that great oscillations are to be expected in panfish populations which are independent of angling."

Conservation Club's Public Meeting Scheduled March 14

The Outagamie county Conservation club will hold its next meeting Monday, March 14, at the county courthouse.

It will be an open meeting, with the public invited, to discuss proposed improvements in the Wolf river watershed.

Not Necessary To Register Towed Boat

Speaker Cites Such Craft as Duck Skiffs as Example

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

A duck skiff towed behind a motor-driven boat will not have to be registered under the state's new boating law.

That's the word received today from Allan D. Galston, assistant enforcement supervisor of the Wisconsin conservation department's east central area.

The question was put to Galston when he appeared at a public meeting in Appleton to discuss the new boating law. He wasn't sure of the answer then. He is now.

Primary Concern
Galston, in a letter to Jim Kranzusch, secretary of the Outagamie County Conservation club, says "I have had an opportunity to check this matter and it is the consensus that registration of a boat being towed by a motor-driven boat would not be necessary."

The matter was of primary concern to duck hunters here. Many of them proceed to a general hunting area in a large boat towing a skiff. Once in the hunting region they transfer to the skiff and paddle the marshes.

The boat that is used for towing, however, must be registered. And, too, if you ever equip your skiff with a rig for attaching a motor and then, in be registered.

Anticipate $600,000 Conservation Balance

Unexpended Funds Termed Margin of Safety; Revenue Reduction Noted

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — In refashioning its budget to take into account reduced revenues, the conservation department is anticipating an unexpended balance of funds of $600,000 for each of the two years in the current biennium.

The point has not been widely understood in the public discussions of the conservation department's current revenue troubles which are likely to force a cut-back in some of its service programs, including fish and game management efforts.

The matter was explained at length when conservation department officers turned up before the state building commission to ask for approval of several building projects, including the construction of a new administrative headquarters building for the staff of the Horicon marsh development project in Dodge county.

Some of the building commission members expressed doubt that the department is in serious financial straits when its books show reserves of funds not spent each year.

Margin of Safety
The officials explained that such balances must be maintained as a margin of safety, since the department is completely dependent upon its own segregated revenues that are sometimes difficult to calculate accurately, and because it also faces contingencies that cannot be budgeted.

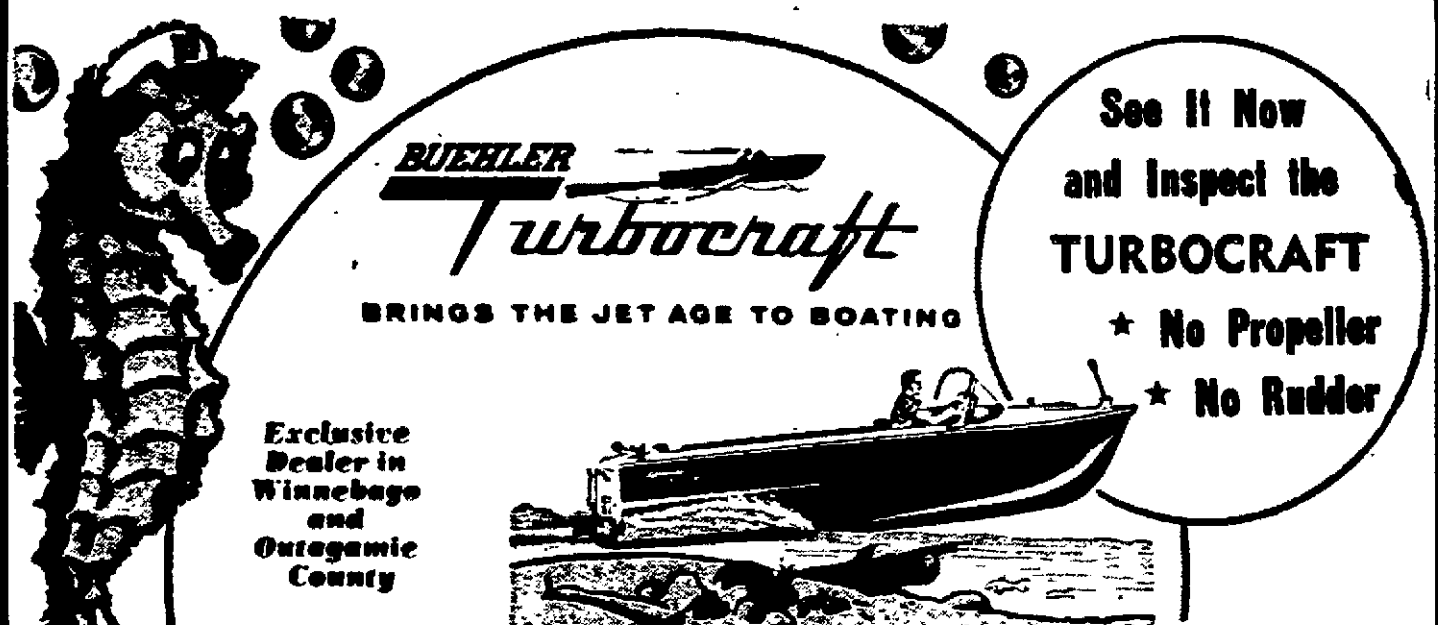

Among the latter, it was explained, are forest fires. The governor and legislators were also told that the budgeted reserve is currently considerably below the figure the department used to regard as minimum amounts for safety. In other years the department usually planned for unexpended balances of more than $1,000,000 yearly, it was said. Department committees are now trying to figure ways and means for reducing ordinary expenditures for the next 18 months to pre-mission members expressed vent deficits in operating funds.

Menasha—Playing up to the capabilities which had been forecast for it at the start of the season, Oshkosh upended Neenah, 73-62, here Friday night to claim the championship of the Menasha sub-regional.

The surprising Indians, proving themselves to be much better than their 6-11 season record indicates, will meet Kaukauna for the regional crown and a berth in the Neenah sectional in tonight's 8:30 p.m. contest. Menasha, which won over Omro, 74-33, in Friday's consolation bracket, takes on Kimberly at 7 p.m.

Below Par

The Rockets, who had won 10 of their last 12 starts, had their poorest night since before Christmas and were beaten off the boards, their shooting was below par and more than once they threw the ball away or into an Oshkosh player's hands.

Neenah's strong point was its free throw shooting for it carried 22 of 32, including 15 of 20 in the second half.

The Indians were just as sharp as they had been against Menasha Thursday night. Their positioning to get the rebounds and board work was great and they found the basket at a 42 per cent clip. The victors, the hottest shooting team in the sub-regional, hit 51 per cent against Menasha.

The Fox Valley conference cagers had a 2-point lead at halftime but it could have been greater but they missed 10 of their first 11 free throws and canned only three of 14 in the first half. They finished with 15 of 31.

Neenah owned a 16-13 lead at the close of the first period but fell behind, 19-16, as the Indians scored the first three baskets of the second stanza.

Neenah Rallies
Trailing 25-22, Neenah had its best flurry of the night, hitting a skein of seven straight for a 29-25 lead with two minutes to go in the first half. Wilson had a basket and free throw, Jim Sauby two

Ghosts Hand Appleton 63-54 Loss

Hortonville Meet

Friday's Results:
Kimberly 81, Hortonville 60 (consolation)
Kaukauna 63, Appleton 54 (championship)

BY MIKE DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Hortonville — Five Ghosts who were iron men won the Hortonville sub-regional basketball tournament here Friday night.

Beautifully coached by youthful Jerry Hopfensperger and exuding desire, Kaukauna's Ghosts upset Appleton, 63-54. The victory over Wisconsin's fifteenth-rated big-school quintet and Hopfensperger's alma mater moves Kaukauna into tonight's Menasha regional finals, against Oshkosh.

Five boys went all the way for Kaukauna, now the last remaining Fox Cities quintet in WIAA tournament play. Following "Hoppy's" instructions to the "T", the winners proved that sound strategy and heart can overcome superior manpower.

Kaukauna never trailed and wasn't in serious trouble in breaking the 6-game winning of the co-Fox River Valley conference champions.

12-4 Lead

Hitting from outside an Appleton zone defense, Kaukauna grabbed a 12-4 lead midway through the first quarter. The Ghosts played a possession game the rest of the way, working the ball, and eating up time, while waiting for a sound shot.

The losers stayed in their zone until the closing minutes of the first half. Kaukauna, which had been bombing away successfully from outside the umbrella, owned a 30-18 halftime lead and had seized the initiative.

AHS never managed to get closer than eight points in the final 16 minutes as Kaukauna, quarterbacked by Bill Borcherdt, played cat-and-mouse.

Shoot .524

The sub-regional champs wound up shooting a sizzling .524 from the floor on 22 baskets in 42 shots. Half of the fielders (11) were launched from 25 feet from the net, or further.

Appleton matched Kaukauna's field goal total but needed 58 shots for its 22 goals (.379). The victory margin was built, entirely, on the free throw stripe.

Kaukauna, Mid-Eastern conference runnerup, blitzed home 19 of 22 attempts for an .880 achievement. Appleton's percentage was even better (.909) but the Terrors had only 11 tries, making 10.

Here are the major contributions of the iron man five. Borcherdt—The bespectacled guard was superb, both as a scorer (21 points) and as a floor man. He made eight of 11 field goal tries and six of the buckets were long-range "bombs." Bill converted five of seven free throws.

Double and triple-teamed at times, Borcherdt was spectacular in making the Kaukauna possession game work. He showed all the equipment of a first-rate guard—great head and body fakes, fine pivoting agility, speed and ex-

Big 10 Votes Surprising Ban On All Post-Season Sports

New Balloting Seems Probable In Conference's Next Meeting

Columbus, Ohio.—A—The 64-year-old Western conference was embroiled in a free-for-all family fight today—a scrap which may end with the powerful loop confining all sports to its own back yard.

Rebellious athletic directors set off the explosion Friday. Shorn of Pasadena's pomp, pageantry and prestige—plus a $300,000 annual payoff—by faculty votes which Friday killed the 14-year-old Rose bowl pact, the sports chiefs struck back.

They came up with a startling resolution urging that post-season events in all sports be banned—not just in football. Faculty representatives immediately approved it.

'Cooling Off' Period
The conference rules, on such major legislation, provide a 60-day "cooling-off" period before it becomes effective. Thus a new vote is practically assured at the May 18-21 session in East Lansing, Mich., after the faculty men get new instructions from their universities.

An objection to the post-season ban must be made by one of the members within the 60-day period to force a vote, but conference officials said such an objection was practically automatic. A majority vote at East Lansing is necessary to formally approve the action.

But if the members split, 5-5, as they did in outlawing the Rose bowl pact, then out the window go post-season

Kimberly High Wins Over Hortonville '5'

Overcomes 1st Quarter Deficit in 'Consolation' Tilt

Hortonville — Rank underdog Hortonville gave powerful Kimberly a few first half surprises here Friday night before succumbing, 87-69, in the consolation finals of the Hortonville sub-regional.

The triumph moved the Mid-Eastern conference champs into the Menasha regional consolation finals tonight against M-E rival Menasha in the Bluejay gym.

Hortonville scored the game's first seven points here Friday and led, 19-17, at the end of the first quarter. The hosts were still within four (39-35) at the half but then fell victim to superior manpower.

Hot Shooting

Both clubs shot sensationally from the floor. The Polar Bears slipped in 28 of 57 shots for 49 per cent. The visitors made 35 of 72 for a .482 record.

Kimberly's Tom Rooyackers and Hortonville's Larry Collar were particularly outstanding. Rooyackers made 11 shots in 15 attempts (73

Noon-Hour Blueprint Comes to Life

Ghosts Repeat 1952 Feat to Gain Finals; 'Hoppy' Lauds Defense

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Hortonville—For Kaukauna High school basketball fans, who have known very few "fat" seasons to break up long successions of lean ones, Friday's 63-54 Ghost victory over Appleton represented a pleasant repetition of history.

It was in 1952, that Kaukauna (with such players as Joe Hinkens, Ken Vanderloop and Dick Busse) upset AHS in the regional semi-finals. That was the last time—until last night—that Kaukauna had beaten the Terrors and the last time they had gained the regional title game.

Best in 19 Years

There is one important difference between the 1952 and '60 situations. Eight years ago, the Ghosts had a mediocre season record and were the longest of long shots in the regional tourney—finally losing a close decision to Neenah in the finals. This time, the Ghosts have a 16-4 record—the school's best in 19 years—and are accorded a good chance of continuing their march.

Tonight's foes — Kaukauna and Oshkosh — have never met in tourney play before. However, their 1959-60 styles won't be a complete surprise to each other. The Ghosts scrimmaged the Indians during the last Christmas vacation.

Cosch Jerry Hopfensperger, the man who brought Kaukauna basketball back to a high level, also ranks as a pretty fair prophet. Asked before the game how he felt about sending a team against his old alma mater (AHS), "Hoppy" replied without hesitation: "We're going to beat them." He added, "We're due for a top game." Hopfensperger was especially anxious to erase a blemish from his record — a 71-33 shellacking at the hands of Appleton in the 1958 tournament — the only other time he has coached a team against the Terrors.

In analyzing the "hows" and "whys" of the game in the locker room after a wild, post-game victory ride from admirers, "Hoppy" termed defense the answer to Kaukauna's success. The defense, which held AHS 30 points below its 84-point eruption against Kimberly and draped an effective net over the dangerous Ron Abel, was planned during the players' lunch hour. The crash program strategy to cover a variety of eventualities was outlined on the board at noon — there was no time to try it out on the court. The capacity crowd in the bright Hortonville gym watched the Hopfensperger blueprint come to life. "Hoppy" commended his players — and he used only five — for following instructions to the letter.

Kaukauna sagged the weak side forward on Abel, electing to take a chance on the outside shooting ability of AHS' forwards. When Abel went "high", LeRoy Weyenberg handled him alone, but when the AHS center moved to a low position — from where he is an outstanding threat — the Ghosts had two men ready for him. "Hoppy" also said that this was the first time Weyenberg had played in the center on defense.

Kaukauna players, elated but not "carried away" by their victory, showed a businesslike demeanor in the locker room, as if cognizant that a big job still lay ahead of them tonight against the suddenly-rejuvenated Oshkosh team.

AHS' Dick Emanuel, the losing coach, showed his sportsmanship anew when he walked into the Ghost dressing quarters with a "lots of luck to you" wish. H. H. Helble and Werner Witte, Hopfensperger's principal and athletic director in his undergraduate days at Appleton, also congratulated the illu-

Oshkosh overcame an early St. Norbert lead and was never headed after that time. The home team led at the half, 49-42.

Ron Dibelius set the scoring pace for the winners with 26 points. Brault was the top point-getter with 37 for St. Norbert.

Kauffman, Smith Pin Foes to Gain 'Semis'

Lawrence college's "Chico" Kauffman and Bob Smith pinned their opponents Friday evening to move into today's semi-finals in the Midwest conference wrestling tournament being conducted at Lawrence's Alexander gym.

The semi-finals were slated to begin at 1 p.m. today with the consolation and championship finals to start at 7 p.m. Kauffman, wrestling at 137 pounds, pinned Grinnell's Whitzell in 4:49 to move into Undefeated Smith, MC heavyweight champion last year, made short work of St. Olaf's Mair, in the 191-pound class, pinning him in 1:17. Smith was to meet Ripon's Faleigh in the semi-finals.

Lawrence's Darrow Glick-son was to meet Ripon's Faleigh in the semi-finals.

Late Warrior Rally Fails; Creighton Wins

Kojis Fails, by 4 Points, to Break Moran's Record

Omaha — A late Marquette rally fell short Friday night and the Warriors dropped a 69-66 decision to Creighton in the final basketball game of the season for both teams.

The defeat gave Marquette a 13-12 record for the season. Creighton ended with 13-11.

Don Kojis, Marquette's great junior, failed to break the school's single season scoring record when he got only 15 points, winding up with 523, three less than the all-time record of 528 set by Mike Moran last season. Kojis scored his points in 25 games while Moran played in 29.

Creighton had a 50 per cent shooting mark in the first half and had 45.2 for the game, compared with Marquette's mark of 41.4. The Jays sank 13 of 21 free throws while the Warriors collected on 8 of 12.

Walt Mangham, playing his final game, took scoring honors with 19 points for Marquette. Pat Adley was high for Creighton with 18.

per cent) and the 6-5 junior finished with 23 points.

Collar poured home his first six shots in the first quarter and had eight for nine in the first half. He wound up with 12 for 17 (71 per cent), making his final four tries. Larry took game honors with 22 points.

Kimberly guard Don Hearden, who indulged in some fancy — dan dribbling which sometimes misfired, wound up with 22 points while Darrell Jansen totaled 16 and Jeff Vander Velden 13. Hortonville's Gary Kohl also shot over 50 per cent (7 for 13) and totaled 18 points for Collar's chief support.

7-1 Lead

Collar hit from the corner and medium range, Herman Schwes scored on the fast break and Collar buried a free throw before Dave Minten hit a free shot with 6:40 showing to give Hortonville a 7-1 lead.

The hosts didn't trail in the first stanza. Jeff Vander Velden's 3-point play cut the score to 19-17 at the quarter rest. Vander Velden hit a foul toss, Jansen two more and Hearden potted a medium-range fielder for a 24-19 Kimberly advantage with 5:45 showing. The victors never again trailed, though their halftime lead was just 39-35.

Rooyackers counted three buckets as KHS tallied 12 of the first half's first 14 points to shoot out of danger, 51-37. The losers never again threatened.

Kimberly converted four tosses at a .708 rate (17 for 24). Hortonville wired 13 of 22 (.591).

Kaukauna Beats AHS To Gain Regional Finals

LeRoy Weyenberg—The 6-5 center, Kaukauna's big scoring threat, was right on his season's average with 24 points. Weyenberg made eight of 17 floor shots and eight of eight foul tries and was a solid "board" man.

Jim Steger—Provided eight big points, was solid defensively, helped out on the boards and in making the stall work.

Myron Zachowski—The un-sung hero of the Kaukauna club was a tower of strength as a rebounder, using his 210 pounds and great jumping ability to perfection. He scored four points.

Ken Kavanaugh—Tallied six points and his fine floor work was instrumental in keeping the ball away from the desperate Terrors.

Careers End

John Nussbaum and Ron Abel, whose great careers came to an abortive conclusion on this night, led AHS scorers with 19 and 16 points respectively.

Nussbaum saved his best scoring effort for his senior campaign for the finale. After a scoreless first half in which he missed both his shots, Nussbaum swished seven of 11 floor tries and all five of his foul shot attempts in a heroic second half bid to boost the losers back within range.

Abel, who had rolled up 40 points Thursday in Appleton's impressive 84-71 thumping of Kimberly, tossed in six of 16 shots Friday and all four of his free throw tries. He was Appleton's top rebounder, with 10.

Schultz Hits 19

Forward Marty Schultz was the only other Appletonian to contribute more than four markers. His 10 all came in the first half when he made five of nine shots, four from medium or long range.

Between the two of them, starters Paul VanderHeyden and Dave LaViolette made one basket (CanderHeyden's) in 13 shots. That kind of accuracy can be, and was, fatal against a good zone. KHS stayed in it all the way.

Offensively, in the second half, the winners spread out Terror man-for-man defenders in the forecourt area and played keep-away. They took 16 shots in the final 16 minutes.

Appleton, whose zone press hadn't worked in the early minutes, went to a man-for-man press in the second half. Borchardt, able to conserve his energy playing against a zone, was a factor.

Bobcats Have Big Weekend Battle Sentinels Tonight, Falcons Sunday in Arena

Green Bay — Green Bay's Bobcats, seeking the Central Hockey League playoff championship to go with the regular season CHL title, tonight open a big weekend of action.

They play host to the Marquette Sentinels in the second game of their semi-final playoff series at the Arena, then entertain the Milwaukee Falcons of the International Hockey league in a grudge rematch Sunday night. Both games will start at 8 o'clock.

The Bobcats will be after a second straight playoff victory over the Sentinels whom they edged, 5-4, in the series opener at Marquette Thursday night on Paul Johnson's goal in the final 10 seconds. Johnson, recent Olympic hero for Uncle Sam in the winter games at Squaw Valley, scored four of Green Bay's five goals.

Now 32-7 for the season, the Bays will be gunning for a repeat victory over the Falcons in Sunday's game. They nosed out the Milwaukeeans, 7-6, in their first meeting here Jan. 26.

One of the requisites of an umpire is hustle. A good umpire is one who makes it his business to be on top of every play. Here is a simulated case where an umpire was the cause of a great deal of confusion because of perhaps too much hustle.

You have passed your first test for entrance to an umpire school if you come up with the correct decision.

Felipe Alou of the San Francisco Giants is on second with one out, against the Milwaukee Braves. Orlando Cepeda is the batter. He lifts a towering fly in short right, near the foul line. Second baseman Felix Mantilla dashes out with his back to the plate while right fielder Henry Aaron comes charging in at full speed. Second base umpire Frank Dascoli also heads out in the general direction of the ball to see whether it lands fair or foul. At the last second, Mantilla lunges for the ball but succeeds only in deflecting it towards Dascoli. The ball caroms off the umpire's shoulder and the on-charging Aaron manages to grab it before it hits the ground. Alou, tagging up, broke for third as soon as the ball hit Mantilla's glove.

Do you think that:

a. Alou was entitled to third?

b. Alou was out for running before the catch was made?

c. Aaron's catch was legal?

Hopfensperger Lauds Team's Defensive Play

trious Terror athletic alumnus though he came back to haunt the school as a Ghost coach.

Emanuel said it was fatal for his team to fall 8 and 10 points behind early, because Kaukauna last night was too good a team to waste such an advantage. He praised the Terrors for their comeback efforts which several times brought them back within striking distance.

Hopfensperger thought this wasn't one of Appleton's better games this season but admitted that the Terrors had a tougher tournament schedule — having had to open against Kimberly. He reiterated his contention that the top teams in the state — including major conference champions — should be "seeded" into the state tournament so that fewer good teams would be eliminated early in the process and to insure a better Madison field.

John Nussbaum was characterized by "Hoppy" as the Terror who gave his team the most trouble. He said Nussbaum has been almost like a brother to him because of their many past associations in athletics. But for 32 minutes last night that friendship was suspended. Hopfensperger called Nussbaum a "great competitor," adding that very few players would have even been ready for tournament play if they had gone through the knee operation John did.

Another victory factor cited by Hopfensperger was Kaukauna's ability to make its stall game work at critical junctures. "We also shot well," added "Hoppy," with a twinkle.

This was the first losing regional tournament game AHS' Abel has played in. When he was a sophomore, the Terrors won three straight for the title, and they won the first 1960 tourney game the other night. When both Abel and Weyenberg were sophs in the '58 tourney, Ron outscored Lee, 17 to 4. Last night, Weyenberg evened the count.

Like "Hoppy," Hortonville's Russ Tiedemann also coached against his prep alma mater: Kimberly. Again the Polar Bear team won plaudits from even neutral fans because of their never-ending spirit and hustle. Again last night, they were decidedly outsized.

Among the spectators were Ron Nord, assistant basketball coach at the University of Wisconsin, and Jim Smith, Marquette's freshman coach. Smith appeared to be sizing up Weyenberg in particular, while Nord admitted the UW is highly interested in Kimberly's Don Hearden. Nord calls Hearden the "best little man" that he's seen in state prep circles this season.

tonight's Schedule: 7:00—Waupaca vs. Blandul (consolation). 8:30—Stevens Point vs. Shawano (championship). Friday's Results: Waupaca 70, New London 48 (consolation). Stevens Point 72, Wisconsin Rapids 46 (championship).

Waupaca — While Waupaca High school grabbed consolation honors with a 70-48 victory over New London Friday night, Stevens Point took the championship of the Waupaca sub-regional basketball tourney with a 73-55 win over Wisconsin Rapids.

Champion Stevens Point got off to a 21-10 lead in the first period, but Wisconsin Rapids closed the gap to 35-29 by intermission. Point maintained a four to six point lead until mid-way in the fourth quarter when Rick Reichardt and Jim Otterlie caught fire and helped Stevens Point to pull away for the win.

Waupaca ran away with its game against New London. The Comets opened up a 23-5 first quarter lead and held this margin throughout. Waupaca's Steve Hansen scored 14 points in this initial attack. New London attempted to press throughout, but this only served to draw fouls. The Bulldogs also seemed to lose the ball too often and allow it to be stolen by the aggressive Waupaca quintet.

Although scoring favored Waupaca only slightly from the floor (21-18), the Comets came through with 28 free throws to the Bulldogs 12.

Steve Hansen grabbed scoring honors with 15 points for the winners. Vern Johnson managed 14 while Dick Brown totaled 12. For New London, Tom Laux contributed 12 points while Dick Emmerich and Jay Schlichting each had 11.

Although scoring favored Waupaca only slightly from the floor (21-18), the Comets came through with 28 free throws to the Bulldogs 12.

During the final two minutes, the Rockets turned cold and were outscored 8-2. Oshkosh took a 30-29 lead but Wilson put Neenah in front 31-30 with two three throws only to have England make a basket and John Schmidt, a free throw, in the last half minute for Oshkosh's 33-31 lead at the intermission.

Up Lead to 39.32

The Indians made six of the first seven points of the third period to extend their advantage to 39-32. Neenah got the spread down to four at 41-37 but after that it was all Oshkosh. The winners upped the lead to 12 points in a hurry. It was down to nine at 54-45 going into the last segment.

Oshkosh made the first four points of the last period and continued to find the hoop frequently while Neenah couldn't buy a basket and did not make a goal until 3:22 remained.

The Indians' widest spread was 17 points. The Rockets narrowed the gap to the final 11 with the last five points of game.

Katt Hits 23

Ron Katt, very successful in hitting over the Neenah zone, topped the winners with 23 points on 11 baskets and a free throw. England had 18 points, 11 in the second period, and Don Lehman, tallied 12, nine in the final frame.

Jack Ankerson's 17 paced the winners. Dick Wilson, who like Ankerson was concluding his prep career, finished with 15. Wilson fouled out with 4:49 to play and Anderson remained with just a minute remaining.

Mt. Olive can win the solo crown by beating St. Joseph in the league finale next week.

Cal Kluss scored 24 points to lead Mt. Olive in its latest win while Dick Dietrich coined 21. Morrissey and Kunitz tallied 10 apiece in the St. Mary cause. First Methodist (7-2) kept pace with 50-44 triumph over St. Matthew (6-3).

St. Joseph (2-7) nudged Zion, 47-45. Dave Nymoen's 27 led the losers (2-7).

tory over Pulaski. In the consolation game, Bonduel edged Clintonville, 55-53.

Shawano led all the way in its battle with Pulaski. The Indians opened up a first quarter 17-12 lead and with Lee Otto and Don Mayer showing the way in the second period, Shawano increased their lead to 41-24 by half time.

Both teams played even during the third period. Pulaski's Mickey Vieaux dumped in five successive field goals in the final period to bring Pulaski to within eight points. But the victors' Tim McGuire took the offensive and thwarted the Pulaski threat.

Shawano held a slight edge in scoring from the floor, 24-22, while scoring 23 free throws to Pulaski's 20. Mel Karcz led scoring with 16 points. For Shawano, Guy Booth totaled 13 and Ron Hoppe hit 12.

Bonduel and Clintonville alternately held the lead during the first half of their tussle. Clintonville used none of its regular starters but still managed to hold a 30-28 half-time lead.

Clintonville held a 45-41 lead at the end of three quarters but Bonduel came from behind in the final period to outscore the Truckers 14-8 and get the win. With less than a minute remaining, the score was knotted at 51-51. Bill Dussling sank a hook shot to give the Bears a 2-point lead. With 1:18 left, Mike Zingler countered with a jump shot for the hosts to tie it up again.

Then with 11 seconds left in the game, Center Steve Nault brought the ball upcourt and added a quick field goal to give Bonduel the nod.

Although Bondue 1 was out-pointed from the floor (23-21) the Bears tallied 13 out of 24 free throws while Clintonville sank only seven in 16 attempts.

Scoring honors went to the Truckers' Dick Bennett with 16 points. Teammate Jim Sutliff added 10 points. Six other Clintonville players figured in the scoring.

For Bonduel Gary Vander-Velden was high man with 14 points. Dave Truesdale had 11 while Bill Dussling totaled 10.

Green Bay — A mailing system change which will affect both the letter writer and the postal employee is the "metropolitan" mail plan which will go into effect in the Green Bay area and the rest of Wisconsin Sunday.

For the public, the Wisconsin metro plan is envisioned as a means of assured one-day delivery between any two points in the state, provided mail is deposited by 5 p.m.

For postal clerks and officials, the forthcoming innovation — for Wisconsin — already has meant extensive learning of new mail sorting schemes and detailed planning for the closely integrating of mail transport schedules upon which the rapid distribution plan depends.

Trains into Green Bay, like elsewhere in the state, will carry mail on the same schedules as heretofore but with expected greatly reduced volume of letter mail because of emphasis on the highway characterized Metro plan.

However, parcel post (except special delivery) will still be widely handled in railroad mail cars.

Developed largely because of diminishing rail service in many areas, the Metro plan idea is part of a nationwide mail speed-up that eventually will include air transportation of first class mail between major cities, authorities have said.

Insurance Unit Hires Investigator

Madison — The Wisconsin Insurance department has named Joseph Agnes, a Green Bay life insurance agent, as its first full-time investigator.

Charles Manson, department commissioner, said he hired an investigator to check on an increasing number of complaints from the public concerning insurance sold in Wisconsin.

Answer to 'You Call It'

(A and C) — First of all, the catch is legal. The ball is in play just as though it had not struck the umpire. Alou is entitled to third base. The runner is required to tag up only until the ball touches the first fielder and he does not have to wait until the ball is finally held.

Formal Jackets Take To Bold, Gay Patterns

It was but a short time ago that a fellow's choices in tuxedos were really limited — either a black or blue-black dinner jacket for fall and winter wear, with the probable addition of a white jacket for summer.

Today, however, there is a dazzling selection of colors and fabrics which are considered socially acceptable as well as extremely smart. But, with this fashion has come a problem — namely, where and when a man sports one of these colorful or patterned dinner jackets?

When considering this problem, it's best to begin with basic concepts. First of all, then, black or blue-black tuxedos are correct for all semi-formal occasions from late fall until early spring in the so-called temperate zones.

White Dinner Jacket

The white dinner jacket dominates the semi-formal fashion scene from Memorial day through Labor day, or at least has in years past, and it is, of course, accepted in the more tropical climates throughout the year.

What is a man to wear on those warm evenings in September and October? The black or blue-black tuxedo seems too dressy, but the white dinner coat seems too

Wisconsin's Swift Resigns as Head of Wildlife Federation

Dallas, Tex. — Ernest F. Swift — internationally known expert on conservation management from Wisconsin — resigned Friday as head of the National Wildlife Federation.

Swift, former Wisconsin Conservation department director and former assistant director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service, told the federation convention that because of his health he wanted to relinquish administrative duties to devote his time to conservation programs.

able garments for cruise and tropic wear. With the fashionable new dinner coats, it adds an entirely new dimension to formal wear.

The trim, flattering mess jacket has a bold and brave ancestry, having been adapted from the military uniform designed to serve officers on formal occasions. The civilian versions come in colors, as well as white, and the fabrics range from washables to luxurious silken-types.

Really formal evening functions, from November until spring, call for white tie and tails, as the classic full dress suit is extremely comfortable in modern treatments.

It all adds up to masculine formal wear to satisfy any occasion, climate or calendar — or man — 12 months a year.

This Neat-Fitting India madras dinner jacket is one of the newest ideas in colored and patterned formal wear. It is ideal for resort and cruise wear now, and will be equally smart for after-dark activities next summer. It also will fill the bill in the late summer and early fall, when it is too late for white dinner coats but too warm for black or blue-black.

Just Unloading at Langstadt's, are the new center drawer refrigerators from Westinghouse, and the new Westinghouse speed electric ranges with Serv-Temp roast guard. Langstadt's is located at 133 E. College avenue, Appleton, and 129 W. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah.

New feature in the 1960 Westinghouse refrigerators is the center drawer. It keeps meat (even hamburger) stored fresh seven days without freezing. Meats can't spoil, dry out or go to waste. The porcelain meat keeper holds 21 pounds at ideal temperature and humidity.

The other half of the new center drawer is a half bushel porcelain crisper which maintains the right temperature and humidity to keep vegetables crisp for a week.

In addition to the new center drawer the top half of the new Westinghouse is the frost-free refrigerator with cold injector refrigeration, glide out shelves, egg drawer and cheese and butter compartment. There is also a separate frost-free freezer with a glide out basket and shelf. Ice cube serve, foot - pedal door opener and interior light.

The exclusive serve-temp roast guard on the Westinghouse speed electric ranges keeps meat hot, juicy, done to your taste, even if dinner's delayed for hours.

Think of it! Never again need you worry about your roast—even if husband, children, guests are hours late. Serve - Temp Roast Guard automatically reduces heat just before roasting is finished. . . keeps meat hot and juicy, at exact degree of doneness you have selected. . . even if left in oven twice the normal cooking time.

Serv - Temp Signal flashes to tell you when meat is done just as you want it. . . from that time on, Roast Guard keeps it that way by matching oven temperature to meat temperature. Frees you of clock-watching and worrying in more kinds of cooking than ever before.

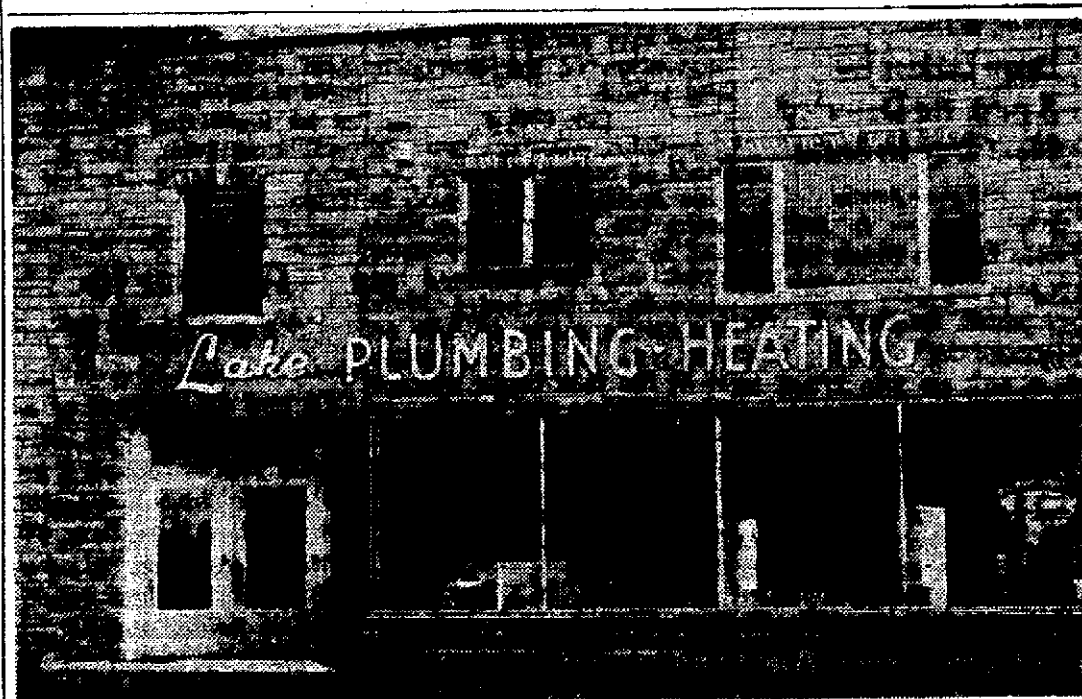

There is Winter Magic With Azaleas, says Memorial Drive Florist, Appleton-Menasha road. Many of the colorful varieties now in bloom at Memorial Drive are descendants of species which originally grew in the hilly regions of Asia and the United States. The new phone number at Memorial Drive Florist is RE 4-8755.

The first of the American azalea in a nursery near Tokyo. Although this was in 1914, Dr. Wilson learned that this particular species was native to the Nishi peak of Mt. Kirishima and had been in development since 1818 in Kurume, Japan. Upon visiting this locality, Dr. Wilson found the wild form still growing, 3,000 feet up, in the volcanic soil of the windswept slopes.

Memorial Drive Florist says that most azalea plants begin life as cuttings made from a mother or stock plant and take a year of watchful care, both in and out of the greenhouse.

The care you give your azalea plant has much to do with its life span, Memorial Drive Florist said. If possible, keep them in a cool spot. Water every day. If the soil becomes dry, submerge the pot in water for a time. Even after the plant has shed its bloom, the foliage provides a green plant which may be enjoyed for some time if watered regularly.

Something Is New Inside Closet Tanks and Lake Plumbing and Heating company would like to invite readers to look inside and see it. Lake Plumbing is located on the corner of Route 114 and 10, at Waverly Beach, Appleton. The telephone number of the firm is RE 3-2104.

A new concept in the manufacture of closet tanks has recently been released by National Fixtures and is available at Lake Plumbing and Heating company, corner of Route 114 and 10 at Waverly Beach.

Equipment inside the tank which was formerly constructed of brass, thus causing rust and expense, has now been cast right with the tank and will last the lifetime of the tank.

These lifetime guaranteed safeguards against trouble and expense are a cast-in ceramic overflow, ground-in ceramic valve seat, and a cast-in ceramic rod guide bracket.

These features were constructed with the owners interest in mind — it is the tank with one-third less parts.

Many home and cottage owners have had to replace the brass pieces inside the tank. Especially in an area where there is a great deal of sulphur in the water, the brass will deteriorate quickly.

Call Lake Plumbing or go to see the new idea in closet tank construction. The telephone number of the firm is RE 3-2104.

A Thinking Duplicator is what they call the Rex-Rotary from Modern Duplicating Machines and Services, 729 W. College avenue. The machine has an unlimited horizon when used with the Electronic stencil service and can turn out 10,000 clear copies of any document with the printing area 8 x 12 1/2 inches at the lowest possible cost.

Rex-Rotary duplicating machines has many models from which to choose, ranging from one which will handle forms 9 by 14 inches to those which can take forms up to 18 by 14 inches. A feature of this new modern duplicating machine is that it uses quick drying paste ink in many different colors. The operator has no contact with the ink as the entire 14 ounce can is inserted into the machine and is ready to use. It is a clean and easy to learn operation and there is no machine clean-up, because ink never dries on the machine. There The firm also wishes to stress the stencil service which they provide for stencils up to 8x12 1/2". There is an electronic stencil-making machine operating in the window and the readers are invited to come in and see it work. Modern Duplicating Machines and Service will make a stencil from your paste-up in 15 minutes. The firm will make individual copies on the Thermo-fax copying machine. Both blue and white line prints are also available. They carry supplies for any duplicating machines. The firm is located at 729 W. College avenue and the telephone number is RE 3-2989.

are no pads to change and no danger of leakage.

John Haugner, manager of the firm, also points out that there will be long runs from the stencils because of the ultra fine ink distribution through the silk screen, a completely different process from the old-fashion type of mimeograph machines. Because of no ink pressure there is no breakage of the stencils. The machine is completely automatic — "a thinking duplicator." Modern Duplicating Machines and Services claims. It will ink itself, turn off at the end of the run, rings a bell when it is out of ink and stops automatically when out of paper. The Rex-Rotary has a registration to 1-25 of an inch. It can change colors in five minutes in a process that is not at all messy. Haugner claims that you will get professional work from your own office personnel.

Your Problems

Wife Wants Hour's Notice of Guests or Else Extra Steaks

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I tell her I thought it was wonderful that she talked so nicely to her mother. She said "Why shouldn't I? My mother has done more for me than anyone in this world."

I decided then and there I was going to turn over a new leaf. At first Mom was shocked. She thought I was sick. I said "please" and "thank you" and offered to do extra things in the house. Within two days everything changed. Mom gave me more adult privileges because she said I was acting more mature.

Teenagers should realize that their parents don't enjoy bickering and arguing any more than the kids. If the teens would make a decent effort to improve their relationship, the parents would meet them at least half way.

—Learned Lady.

Dear Learned: Cheers! At last—a voice from the ranks—and coming from you it has real meaning. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN: A certain attractive woman in our community lost her husband several weeks ago. She had lots of callers at first, but now just a few people drop by. The minister called on her three times the first week, which everyone thought was overdoing it. By chance I noticed his car in front of her home again on Monday afternoon of last week.

I'm not saying anything is wrong, but I do feel it would cut down on the gossip in this town if the minister would take his wife along. Do you agree?—Just a Neighbor.

Dear Just: I'm all for cutting down on gossip and I

I'm a fairly good cook, but I'm no magician. Men just don't understand that extra people mean extra preparations. More than once the kids have had to eat peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and the guests got the chops. Please tell me what to do about this before I blow my top.—Caught Short

Dear Caught: Tell your husband that either he brings home (with the guests) some extra steaks or he'll have to settle for whatever there is.

Maybe after a few attempts at cutting lamb chops in half and dividing eight spears of asparagus six ways, he'll learn that you mean business.

For obvious reasons I'm avoiding the suggestion that you keep frozen meat on hand for "emergencies."

DEAR ANN: Please print this letter for teenage girls who are having trouble with their mothers. I'm 14 and have solved one of life's biggest problems.

Mom and I were forever arguing. No matter what she said I had a smart comeback. We never agreed on anything.

Then a girl moved to our block from another city. We got along swell from the start. She invited me to her house for the night and that's when my eyes were opened.

This girl and her mother had the loveliest relationship I ever saw. They were polite and considerate to each other—not like relatives, but friends. I couldn't help but suggest you start with yourself.

It's part of a clergyman's job to give spiritual strength to those who have lost loved ones. Why don't you use that wonderful insight of yours to crochet a tablecloth?

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For the Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Personality Not Hard to Acquire

BY ANGELO PATRI

During a class discussion the teacher said something about personality that caught Matilda's attention.

"You can do a great deal about building a pleasant personality, and it is important that you do so. Your personality is the picture people have of you; the way you look to them," the teacher said.

Matilda thought about that all through the school day. She was no shining personality and she knew it. Invitations passed her by. Nobody waited for her at lunchtime. The telephone never rang for her.

At home Matilda went to her room and faced the mirror.

Half-crying, half-laughing, she sank into the nearest chair. Just then her mother appeared.

"Anything wrong? Why Matilda, what happened?"

By now the tears were cascading. Between sobs came the answer: "I have no personality."

"Nonsense. You've plenty.

Older Women Excel In Clerical Performance

Although there have been predictions that older women may find it increasingly hard to get jobs in the next few years, there are positive facets to the picture that cannot be overlooked.

One of these facets is a study which grew out of an observation by the Bureau of Labor Statistics: that as workers reach and pass the age of 45, "when their training and experience should be an asset, they often meet resistance when seeking a new position."

To see if productivity really drops as a worker grows older, the bureau recently looked into the job performance of clerical workers of all ages who worked for 21 large business firms and five federal agencies.

The older workers made an outstanding score. Most of them happened to be women.

Steadier Work Rate

Three important discoveries came out of the study:

1. Workers in the older age groups had a steadier rate of production, with "considerably less variation from week to week" than workers in the younger age groups.
2. Many workers in the older ages exceeded the performance of younger workers.
3. On the basis of amount of work produced per hour, older workers did just as well as younger ones.

"Workers in the higher age groups not only maintained an average 'output rate' equal to that of younger groups," the bureau said, "but also maintained an equal degree of accuracy."

"Thus, arbitrary barriers to the hiring of older workers which are related to rate of output seem unwarranted. The findings substantiate the need for individual evaluation of workers."

No Center Aisle for Wedding

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: The church I am planning to be married in has no center aisle, only two side aisles. Will you please tell me how the seating is arranged and also which aisle is used for the processional?

Answer: In a church with two main aisles, all of the seats on the right aisles belong to the bride's family and guests. The left aisle belongs to the bridegroom's family and guests. The bride's mother is seated in the front pew at the left (as always) of the bride's aisle exactly as she would be in a center-aisle church. The bridegroom's pew on the right side of the mother occupies the front groom's aisle (also as always). For the processional, the bride's (right) aisle is chosen. After the ceremony, the bride and groom come down the groom's (left) aisle.

No Objection

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter's engagement has just recently been announced and she received a very lovely gift from her fiancé's mother. I would like to know if my husband and I are expected to give her fiancé a present as a gesture of welcome into the family.

Answer: For you to give him a present is not expected and would be very unusual, but if you would like to do so, there is no reason why you may not.

Ask for Jewels

Dear Mrs. Post: I gave my daughter-in-law some valuable family jewels several years ago. She is now divorcing my son, intending to marry someone else immediately. She is asking custody of their only child—my granddaughter. It is for this child I'd like to keep our family jewels and as nothing has been said about returning them to me, may I ask her to return them?

Answer: Had you bought the jewels for her you could not very well ask for their return. But you can certainly ask for the return of family heirlooms.

Use Opponent to Reach Dummy if Need Arises

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

We wind up our week-long discussion of entries to the dummy with a hand in which you need help from the enemy. If you can't reach the dummy by yourself, ask an opponent for cooperation.

West leads the jack of hearts, dummy and East play low, and you win with the king. You notice that East has made a vulnerable opening bid and that only one ace, two kings and one queen are missing. East must have all of those cards.

If you are not careful you will lose a spade, two hearts, and a club. You must develop dummy's long diamonds to dispose of a loser or two.

The problem is to get back to dummy after you have set up the diamonds. You can reach dummy with the ace and king of spades to take two diamond finesses. It is the third entry to dummy that is hard to find.

Need End Play

You need an end play to make the game contract. Lead a trump to the ace and finesse the queen of diamonds. Lead a trump to the king and finesse the jack of diamonds. Then lead the ace of diamonds to drop the king.

Now give East his trump trick.

What can East lead? If he returns a heart, dummy's queen of hearts will win a trick. If East returns a club, instead, dummy's queen of clubs becomes a winner. Either way you are sure to get back to the dummy for the rest of the diamonds.

Italian Trio Will Give Series Concert

The final concert in the Chamber Music series at Lawrence college will be by the Trio di Bolzano, Italian ensemble, at 8:15 p.m. Monday in Harper hall.

The Trio, noted for its "bel canto" unity of line, takes its name from the Alpine valley in northern Italy with whose university its three members are associated.

The three artists each gave up individual careers to create their internationally known trio. Nunzio Montanari, pianist, studied piano and composition at the state conservatory in Bologna before becoming a soloist with Italy's major orchestras. He ident at Pesaro and the Accademia Chigiana in Siena where he was a pupil of Andre Navarra.

Although the three had regularly performed together for BBC for several years after forming their group in Bolzano in 1949, they date their combined international activities from 1953, and since then have received universal acclaim in such cities as Paris, London, Salzburg, Florence, Rome, and Madrid.

Monday's program by the Trio di Bolzano includes Mendelssohn's "Trio in C Minor, Op. 66," Mozart's "Trio in E Major, K. 542," and Ravel's "Trio."

Tickets for the performance have been sold out.

Large-Leaved Hydrangeas Popular Seasonal Pot Plant

By Katherine B. Walker

One of the most popular pot plants at this season is the hydrangea, a lovely large-leaved shrub with enormous clusters of flowers in white or shades of pink or blue.

The plants you see in floral shops and elsewhere are almost always hybrids of Hydrangea macrophylla, a tender kind that can stand only a few degrees of frost. With this in mind, either plan to maintain your hydrangea indoors during the cold months (it will be dormant), or provide adequate protection if it is to be planted outside.

During its growing season, hydrangea likes ample watering, and when I say ample, I mean the soil should be kept constantly wet. You can do this by setting the pot in a shallow bowl kept filled with water. Your plant will already be potted in rich loam, and fresh soil of the same kind should be used when the plant is repotted after its winter dormancy. Hydrangeas prefer a bright exposure, but may scorch if exposed to too much sunlight, so protect them from full sun.

Soil Change

Some varieties naturally have pink or blue flowers; others come by them artificially, or perhaps I should say they have a little assistance in the color change. Hydrangea macrophylla Kuhnert, for example, normally has rose flowers, but by acidifying the soil with the application of aluminum sulphate, or some other substance, the blossoms turn a beautiful bright blue. If you have a plant that had blue flowers last year but has pink ones this year, you need to shift the pH of the soil to bring back its former color.

Hydrangeas may be kept over from year to year, in a frost-free place, or new plants may be started from cuttings of half-matured shoots, started under glass. The plants may also be increased by hardwood cuttings layering, suckers or by division. It only takes a year to grow a good plant from a cutting, particularly if the young plants are set out for the summer, then potted and brought indoors for their winter rest.

Ordinarily we offer to advise where plants described in Indoor Gardening can be purchased by mail; however, these plants can be purchased locally no matter where you live, so please look for them in your local stores.

Questions and Answers

What causes leaf tips to turn brown?

With no more information than this to go on, I can only guess, but my guess would be that the air in your home is extremely dry.

What is a pebble-tray, and how is it made?

A pebble-tray is simply any shallow receptacle that is water-tight in which a layer an inch or more deep of small pebbles (chicken-grit, shell bits, etc.) is placed and then water added to cover them. On the water-covered pebbles you set a potted plant. If the particular plant does not like constantly moist soil, then keep the water just below the pebbles; if it likes wet soil, keep them covered with water. The water in the pebbles, as it evaporates, surrounds the plant with air considerably more humid than might otherwise be found in that place.

I got two plants from a grower on your source sheet, and although one is doing fine, the other one died. I wrote the grower and asked why, and was told they didn't know but that they would be glad to replace it. Why did it die, can you tell me?

I wouldn't have the least idea. However, I believe all the growers on our list guarantee live arrival, and most of them usually replace plants that die within a short time, so I suggest you simply ask for the replacement.

Here are extra sheets which were sent to me. I asked for one of your sheets, and during the time it took you to answer my first letter, I wrote again, once to you and the second time to the newspaper inquiring what had gone wrong. You answered all my letters, so I thought I'd better send back the extras.

The route that a letter from a reader must travel before it reaches me is not swift. We do the best we can, but please allow a month for an answer before writing to see what's gone wrong. The only time we don't answer is when a reader forgets to give us either a name or an address.

Katherine Walker will be glad to answer questions pertaining to house plants, but regrets she will be unable to answer those dealing with outdoor varieties. In writing her, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Two Hurt in Early Morning 2-Car Collision

Two persons were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Lindy's ambulance after a 2-car collision about 4:35 a.m. today at Jefferson and Harrison streets. Neither was seriously injured.

Injured were the driver, Frank F. Kranszsch, 20, of 712 S. Jackson street, and his passenger, Donna Strobl, 16, of 1730 E. College avenue.

Kranszsch's car, eastbound on Harrison, collided with one driven by Edwin Ruechel, 56, of 2512 S. Madison street, northbound on Jefferson. The impact spun the cars around and the rear sections collided a second time, throwing Kranszsch's car into a power pole.

A car, believed stolen, Friday hit a parked car owned by Clarence H. Klitzke, 1121 N. Badger avenue, while it was parked in the 1300 block of W. Franklin street. Police said the car was owned by Willard Baehman, 1510 W. Prospect avenue, and the ignition wires apparently had been jumped.

Police are seeking a youthful driver, believed to have received a head injury in the impact.

Gas Drives Off Thieves

Chilton Safe Burglary Interrupted by Vials Breaking During Job

Chilton — A tear gas device apparently thwarted safecrackers Friday night at the Cooperative Service Oil company store, Police Chief Norman Pfeffer reported.

The unsuccessful thieves used some of the store's tools to hammer off the safe's handle. They also drilled the door and are believed to have been interrupted when tear gas vials were broken.

Entry to the building was gained by prying open a boarded-up basement window at the rear of the building. The battered safe was found about 7 a.m. today by store employees. No merchandise was taken, Frank Hass, store manager, said.

Footprints in snow at the rear of the building indicated that more than one person was involved, police said. Because of the similarity to footprints discovered at a New Holstein break-in Friday night, Sheriff C. J. Kosmosky believes the incidents are linked.

Thieves took $21.60 from an open safe of the A. A. Laun lumber company at New Holstein. They entered the building by breaking a lock on the lumber shed door. City police and the sheriff's department are investigating.

219 Students Pass Safe Driving Course

A total of 219 students at Appleton High school have completed a 30-hour classroom course in driver education.

Instructors were Eugene Vanden Heuvel, David Black, Lawrence Witzke, Miss Pauline Gaertner and Miss Theodosia Brzezinski.

Beat the System

One way we did beat the system was in the discovery of what is known as the "culture en boutique"—high fashion in a store, to you. For the lady who craves the styles of Dior and Fath at the prices of the Bon Ton, here is the answer.

There are perhaps ten such shops in Paris. The one we stumbled upon was Laetitia at 300 Rue St. Honore, run by Fred Lewy and his pert Normandy doll of a wife, Dany, who is his designer.

The principle governing operations like this one is the elimination of gaudy showrooms, models and personnel, and concentration upon the essentials of authentic style, impeccable workmanship and personal service.

You answered all my letters, so I thought I'd better send back the extras.

The route that a letter from a reader must travel before it reaches me is not swift. We do the best we can, but please allow a month for an answer before writing to see what's gone wrong. The only time we don't answer is when a reader forgets to give us either a name or an address.

"You don't understand—I live here!"

Going Places France Offers the Lido, Shops and the Riviera

BY SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Nice, France—We stayed in Paris just long enough to do the two most important things a tourist can do here, shop and see the new show at the Lido. Eating is a worthwhile pastime too, but one must let digestion be the better part of malheur.

The Lido is a night club even for people who don't like night clubs. As always, the show is a dazzling blaze of light, color, music and movement that leaves the senses limp—pure entertainment in its most exciting form. There is never anything pornographic about its famed nudity; it is merely a tribute to the frank French appreciation of beauty and sex that transcends obscenity.

The desire to shop is a disease that has been turned into a business. Everywhere there are shops, cheek to jowl and street upon boulevard, glittering with brocades, china, jewelry, perfume and all the things that drive a woman mad and bankrupt. How French women, who are at least normal, keep their equilibrium midst all this temptation, is not to be understood by mortal tourists. We even found ourselves buying things we could get cheaper at home.

Beat the System

One way we did beat the system was in the discovery of what is known as the "culture en boutique"—high fashion in a store, to you. For the lady who craves the styles of Dior and Fath at the prices of the Bon Ton, here is the answer.

and include name entrepreneurs who copy his designs and sell them for four times the Paris price in New York—pick Dany's originals off the plain pipe racks, have them made up in their sizes, and escape at such prices as $75 and $80 for a suit or dress, with lines swiped right out of Balmain's and Givenchy's showrooms.

How Freddy does it is not disclosed, but perhaps his background as a World War II underground intelligence officer helps.

We traveled by Air France's new Intercontinental 707 jet, with cockpit instruments labelled in French clocks on the cabin walls showing Greenwich time and destination time and a stand-up bar amidships for the purpose of getting high in the sky. The French cabin service includes food and wine to put the indiscreet under the seat.

Miami Beach of Europe

The Caravelle is a unique twin jet airplane that cruises almost as fast as a 707, in comparable comfort and, best of all, links Paris and the Riviera in an hour and a half. It will soon be seen on North American air routes.

The Riviera is to Europe what Miami Beach is to America, but like all of Europe, bears a veneer of dignity and proper aging that only time will bring at home.

Along the jagged Mediterranean coast the Riviera stretches, roughly, from St. Tropez in the west to Italy in the east, along a spectacular seacoast of soaring rocky cliffs and mountains and bright blue bays that have given the area its name of Cote d'Azur—the Blue Coast.

Resort Center

Nice, France's fifth city, is its heart. Along its Promenade des Anglais, like a Victorian Collins Ave., elegant hotels and apartment houses stand shoulder to shoulder looking out to the sea whence the welcome breezes blow in summer.

There is much to see in every direction. A day's drive to the west lies the medieval bastion city of Carcassonne, an hour to the east along the three parallel mountain roads

Kennedy-Humphrey Test Stirs Dopesters

Consensus Is Massachusetts Senator Is Favored in Highly-Populated Areas

BY JOHN WYNAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The dopesters have come to some early but necessarily tentative conclusions about the drift of electoral sentiment in the Kennedy-Humphrey contest for Wisconsin Democratic national convention delegates that has aroused nation-wide interest.

In most accounts the rivals thus far are breaking even in numbers of congressional districts in which they are believed to lead, and are fighting neck and neck in others.

Strong Districts

The consensus is that Sen. Kennedy, about a month before the April 5 balloting, is probably the favorite in statewide popular voting in the presidential primary because his strong districts are those with the largest populations and heaviest prospective voting.

In most accounts Kennedy is now the favorite to win a majority of the Democratic primary ballots in the two populous Milwaukee districts, the fourth and the fifth, in the sixth district comprising lower Fox River valley counties, and in the eighth, composed of the upper Fox Valley and environs.

Similarly Sen. Humphrey tends to be favored by political writers, politicians and other close observers in the ninth, third and tenth district bordering his own state of Minnesota, and probably in the second district which includes Dane county and the city of Madison.

In the latter district, however, his favorite status depends largely upon the fact that some influential and prominent politicians who are known to regard Adlai Stevenson as their first choice are collaborating in the Humphrey campaign work.

Farm Areas

The doubtful districts, in the consensus, are the seventh, a combination farm and industrial district of north central Wisconsin, and the first, a similarly constituted district along the southern border of the state.

The Kennedy - Humphrey

—the high, middle, and low Corniches, each offering its own dramatic view of the coast—rests the showpiece of Monaco, domain of Prince Ranier and Princess Grace.

It may be presumptuous to say that the world's most famous gambling joint at Monte Carlo has come upon hard times just because nowadays it is possible to place a $1 bet in the casino's public rooms and to buy admission into the private rooms where the minimum is $4.

But how else does one explain the mysterious rack near the entrance containing letters addressed, presumably, to desperate losers? Is it possible that the elegant casino is being used as a post office?

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel questions.

Address them care of this newspaper. All will be answered as soon as possible, but those containing stamped, self-addressed envelopes will be given preference.

about has attracted a long list of out-of-state writers and commentators, and some politicians friendly and unfriendly to the contestants who are curious about the drift of affairs here.

Collectively they have solicited the opinions and reactions of hundreds of local politicians and other information sources.

The visiting correspondents have shown a keen interest in the matter of public reaction to Kennedy as the first major presidential candidate in decades who is a professing Catholic.

A frequent conclusion is that the circumstance is probably not significantly tested in this state because Wisconsin has a higher proportion of Catholic church members than has the country as a whole.

Down-Grade Primary

Some of the visiting writers, meanwhile, have shown a tendency to down-grade the Wisconsin primary as a significant barometer of popular feeling on the Democratic presidential nomination fight, for these principal reasons:

Only two of half a dozen major nomination contenders have entered here.

Wisconsin is not typical of the political behavior of the country as a whole.

The state's "open" primary, which will permit Republicans to vote in the Democratic column, for example, is likely to make the Kennedy-Humphrey contest less than definitive about Democratic voters' opinions, whatever its outcome.

Hair Specialists Here Monday; Will Show How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Appleton, Wisconsin on Monday, March 7th, 1960 only. Other cities listed below.

Trichologist L. E. Schroer will be in charge, representing the dynamic Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 11:30 to 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Conway Hotel. Phone RE 4-2611.

At the home office of the Erickson organization, a new, even more successful method of treatment was announced—a treatment that you can easily administer yourself at home.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "four-al". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by an Erickson expert.

Who Can Be Helped?

For many years now Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the body of scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson home treatment.

Will the new Erickson treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are sick-bald after years of gradual hair-loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or sebaceous—can be corrected by the Erickson home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

Evidence of the success of the Erickson method is that the organization has expanded to hundreds of cities in 32 states.

The most important thing is: "Don't wait until it's too late."

Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't think anybody can stop hair loss—" or "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep right on losing hair till you're bald... unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair-growing condition again.

Brisk Bidding Seen for Junior High at Neenah

School Board to Learn Costs Possibilities on Thursday

Neenah—Brisk bidding is expected for the new junior high school when the school board opens bids Thursday afternoon.

At least a half dozen or more contractors have taken plans for each of the various sections on which bids will be taken, according to the architectural firm of Perkins and Will, Chicago, designers of the new junior high school.

Bids are being sought for general construction, electrical wiring and fixtures, heating and ventilating and plumbing and sewage.

After an estimate of the building cost is received, the city will float a bond issue to cover it. The council has received a request for $1,100,000 from the school board.

Included is the land purchase and architectural fees.

Month to Decide

The school board has a month after the opening of the bids to decide which alternates it will use, if any, and to award the contracts. Construction will begin this summer with the building to be ready by the opening of school in the fall of 1961.

Fourteen academic classrooms are included in the new junior high school in addition to special rooms for industrial arts, home economics and band and vocal music. The plans also provide a library, gymnasium and a cafeteria, a combination auditorium and cafeteria which can be used also for programs and as a study hall.

Since all of the classrooms will not be needed at first for junior high pupils, the school board and school officials have been thinking of using some rooms for the upper grades to relieve the pressure on other schools.

Two classes of sixth grade pupils at Wilson school will be transported by bus to Roosevelt school next fall because of the heavy student load at Wilson and the two empty rooms at Roosevelt

Church to Add 2nd Service

Our Savior's Lutheran Changes Worship Hours

Neenah — Our Savior's Lutheran church will begin holding two worship services Sunday, the Rev. Donald T. Hansen, pastor, announced today.

The new schedule adds a family service beginning at 8:30 a.m. This will be a 45-minute service, after which the children will go to Sunday school and adults will be invited to attend a Bible class.

Both the Sunday school and Bible class will adjourn at 10:15 a.m. The Bible class will be conducted by Pastor Hansen and will be held in the church nave.

The second worship service will begin at 10:30 a.m. Pastor Hansen will conduct both services which will be identical except that communion and baptisms will not be scheduled during the early service.

Reasons for Change

In the past, Sunday school has convened at 9 a.m. with the worship service following at 10:15 a.m. Pastor Hansen cited two reasons for the change. First was to alleviate the crowded conditions at the single morning worship service.

Second was to implement the church's program of adult participation in the education program and of attendance of children at the worship services.

The latter point of encouraging church attendance by children is reflected in the church's Lenten service schedule. This year the services are being held at 7:15 p.m. and the confirmation class on Wednesdays and last 45 minutes.

Menasha School Survey Urges Major Reorganization of Grades' Science, Social Studies

Menasha — In the elementary school curriculum, Northwestern university's survey team recommended major reorganization of the social studies and science programs.

Suggestions for improving the language arts and arithmetic offerings call for less extensive changes.

Any such changes, of course, would be made by action of the board of education and professional administrators.

Elementary school music and art teachers should have lesser loads, the curriculum study group felt, and physical education personnel "should be commended for developing a fine program with the facilities at hand."

The Northwestern group suggested revision of the whole grade school social studies program, and this year, faculty and administration should agree on what it will be, and should put it into writing.

Suggest Expansion

Further expansion of the program's plan should be made next school year, for introduction in 1961 or 1962, using the curriculum study's suggested master plan for social studies, the report advises.

The board of education is urged to work in the next two years on its overall idea for social studies, and should buy new books and other materials gradually to begin their use a little at a time for a smooth changeover.

In spite of the criticisms noted as "severe" by the evaluators, many excellent things were found in the existing program. "What was being taught was being taught quite well, in an isolated sense." But the team questioned whether the subjects were well enough connected.

"As it is, if the present social studies program could be drawn out in some form, it would most likely resemble an old-fashioned patchwork," states one section of the report.

Sequence

For recommendations, the Northwestern group offered this sequence:

Kindergarten — social living in general.

First — emphasizing home and school as human communities.

Second — the neighborhood and interdependence of all its members.

Third — emphasis on Menasha as a community and incorporating its history from the time of the Indians.

Fourth — study Wisconsin and other states, reducing the time spent on current world affairs.

Fifth — emphasizing the United States as a nation first, then studying Canada and the Latin American countries, including the organization of American states.

Two Sixth Grade Plans

Sixth — studying other foreign lands, such as Europe, the Middle East, Africa, Asia, Australia and Antarctic regions. In each case, national combinations emerging from the present world tension should be discussed, such as NATO and SEATO and the communist bloc.

In sixth grade, another suggestion is to begin with geography of either Atlantic or Pacific areas, then the history of the area chosen. In the seventh grade, the same process should be repeated for the other area.

For improvement of the science program, the first suggested step is to develop courses in well planned order. Then faculty members should work out details and teach them, they add.

Science teaching in Menasha schools, the group thought, was "sporadic," but added the term is not a criticism. The only solution is to work out a detailed overall plan and employ it.

Culminates Nature Studies

Sixth graders should receive strong nature study instruction before they go on the annual spring campout, which will be a culmination of their work, the surveyors believed.

In planning a new science program, a consultant from some college is recommended, and each teacher should Neenah — Mrs. Ray Bennett will lead a discussion on cold frames and seeds at YWCA House and Garden club's 1:30 p.m. Monday meeting at the YWCA.

Mrs. Ira Caple will report on progress for the April Good Neighborhood fair. Tea committee members are Mrs. Royal Gooding and Mrs. Don Christison.

Vocational Exhibit

Menasha — The annual exhibit of work made in Menasha Vocational school homemaking classes will be shown from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the school. Displays from all homemaking classes, including clothing, will be shown. Miss Leona Bovee, homemaking coordinator, has announced.

Tryouts Underway

Neenah — Tryouts now are being held at Neenah High school for students wishing to be in the Thespians troupe's next production, "Damn Yankee." This musical will be given May 5 to 7 at the school.

A cast of 40 in addition to crew workers is being sought, according to Kenneth Anderson, club adviser.

Urge Changes In Menasha Grade Course

be trained in best use of science equipment. The science book library should be increased, the study team believes.

Children's work should be evaluated as to powers of careful observation and willingness to find solutions to scientific problems, the team further suggested.

In language arts, the schools might reexamine the emphasis in first grade on phonetic teaching of reading. "Research suggests... the less mature child does not learn to cope with the phonetic approach until he is in grade two," the Northwestern group said.

Change to Cursive

Children should be shifted to cursive from manuscript writing in the second semester of second grade, unless they are doing poorly in manuscript. Then, the report suggests, the change should come in third grade. "Especially in the early grades, do not over-stress handwriting to the detriment of... creative expression."

But under no circumstances should the board of education begin instruction in a foreign language in the grades, until board and faculty have studied the matter fully, say the surveyors.

As to arithmetic, the schools were urged to stress meanings of arithmetic as much as abstract computational skills. Development of a local instructional guide in the next year also was recommended. Some study has been under way to work out such a guide.

In its comment, the report notes the arithmetic program is satisfactory, but adds that fundamental changes must be made if pupils are to be best prepared for advanced high school mathematics.

Major recommendations in physical education are to revise the courses to develop individual, dual and team skills, keep better record of children's development and proficiency and re-equip gymnasiums and outdoor play areas over a 3-year period.

In both elementary art and music areas, rescheduling of teachers is suggested to allow one free period a day.

The art teacher should work out grade-by-grade sequences of classes and should work more with 3-dimensional media, the report suggests.

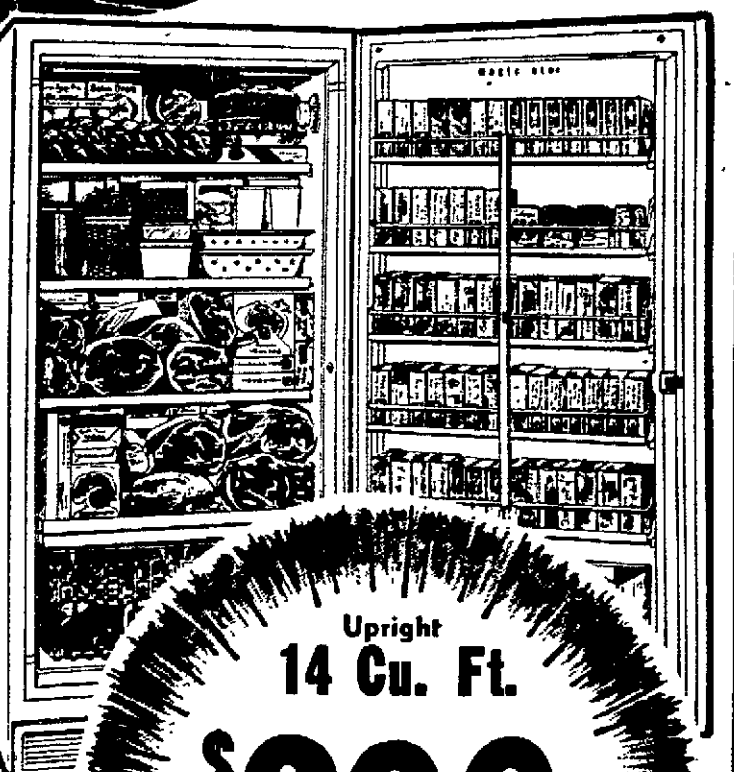

Another elementary music teacher should be employed if first and second graders are to receive musical instruction, and the elementary chorus should be scheduled in the normal school day rather than being squeezed into lunch periods or immediately after school hours. More new band instruments also are recommended.

Soap Bubble Stunts Provide Great Fun for Contests, Races

BY CAPPY DICK

Soap bubble blowing is great fun. For a blower I prefer an old-fashioned clay pipe. Any soap that makes a lot of suds may be used. Best results will be had if the water is soft so the soap will dissolve thoroughly. A few drops of glycerine added to the thick suds will make the bubbles more elastic and durable.

Have a contest to see who can blow the biggest bubble. Experience will count here. So some practice in advance is advisable to learn just how hard you dare blow without endangering an expanding bubble. If you blow too fast and too hard the bubble may burst sooner than if you blow more carefully.

Have another contest to turning air currents. Just see whose bubble will last watch to see whose bubble longest. All the players will be the last one to burst. should start blowing at the same time and at a signal of fun. Tonight's Games:

Neenah — Tullar school defeated Spring Road 36-21 and Lakeside of Oshkosh edged Lakeview 24-20 in semi-final games in the Winnebago County Rural Grade school basketball tournament Friday night at the Spring Road school.

The winners will meet for the championship at 8 p.m. tonight while Clayton, 35-25 winner over Oakwood, will clash with Sunset, at 7 p.m. for consolation honors.

Tullar and Spring Road were tied 8-all at the quarter but the former moved in front 14-11 at halftime and 28-17 at the close of three periods.

Dick Rouss scored 14 points and Jim Casperson added 10 for Tullar while Pete Kraut, kramer topped Spring Road with eight.

Lakeside held an 8-6 first quarter lead over Lakeview but was blanked in the second period while the latter hit six more points for a 12-8 half-time score. Lakeside posted a 4-2 third period edge and doubled Lakeview's total, 12-6 in the final segment.

Ghosts in Regional Finals For First Time Since 1952

Menasha — Kaukauna's role as finalist in the regional basketball tournament here tonight is its first since 1952 when it was beaten by Neenah 46-44 for a sectional berth. Dick Jorgensen's field goal in the last minute was the margin of victory.

The same year Kimberly competed in the consolation bracket for the last time, bowing to Oshkosh. Menasha is in the consolation final for the second straight year. It bowed to Kaukauna a year ago.

The Ghosts and Shawano are the only two Mid-Eastern conference entries still in title contention. Two Rivers was eliminated by Manitowoc Friday night.

Neenah's loss to Oshkosh gave it a final 14-6 record. Menasha takes a 10-9 log in to this evening's consolation affair against Kimberly.

The magic number in the Menasha subregional has been 74. Winners in the first three games hit that total and Oshkosh was just a point shy in beating Neenah.

The field for next week's Neenah sectional has been paired to eight "eligibles." Berths will be filled by tonight's games matching Oshkosh and Kaukauna, Coleman and West Green Bay at Green Bay, Manitowoc and Kewaunee at Two Rivers and Reedsville and Oostburg in the Reedsville district.

When one of the officials didn't show up for the Friday afternoon freshman game between Fond du Lac Springs and Green Bay Premonite at St. Mary. Lou Yugovich, Springs varsity basketball coach, was called upon to fill in. Yugovich, a certified official, worked the game in street shoes, white shirt and tie.

One of the busiest coaches these days is Don Gosz, who last night piloted the Oshkosh Lourdes freshmen in the frosh meet and then had to hurry to the Spring Road school to coach Tullar against Spring Road in the county rural tournament. Both of his teams won. Tullar plays in the finals tonight and his Lourdes team will see action Sunday afternoon and evening.

AAUW Compiles File as Service To Community

Neenah — In an effort to assist local high school students planning to enroll in colleges and universities with the names of alumni of the schools of their choice, Neenah-Menasha branch of American Association of Universities Women has compiled a list of schools and graduates from its membership list.

Over 50 colleges and universities representing all parts of the country are included on the listing. Letters have been sent to the three Twin City high schools telling of the files and offering their use to the advisers.

Another file listing members by their major field of study has been compiled in answer to a need felt for some years. Mrs. Robert Schwier, AAUW president, has announced. Mrs. Allen Guentzel assisted with this file. It is expected to be used to answer such requests as tutors for Latin or English or women who have majored in home economics.

Mrs. Schwier says the branch has no organized program in this area for help to high school students, but interested students can find local people who have attended a certain college or majored in individual plans to talk to the person.

Among the colleges represented by AAUW members, Lawrence and the University of Wisconsin claim the most alumnae with other Big Ten schools well represented.

Out of state colleges range from the University of Toronto, Canada, attended by Mrs. G. G. M. Eastwood to Alabama college, attended by Mrs. B. G. Martin. Mrs. Lyle Argessinger attended Simmons college, Boston, and Mrs. Larry Lancaster, the State College of Washington.

A complete list of the colleges and universities was sent to the three high school advisers, Miss Margaret Griffiths, Neenah High school; Miss Bernice Miller, Menasha High school, and Sister Lucille Marie, St. Mary High school.

April Tea Each spring, the local branch gives a program tea for all local high school senior girls planning to continue their education. Mrs. John Bietzinger, elementary and secondary education chairman, will be tea chairman.

The event will be held April 21 at the YWCA. Girls will have an opportunity to meet alumnae from the schools they plan to attend.

The branch uses its files for selecting members for elective and appointive offices and chairmanships within the organization. Civic organizations occasionally request names of members with specific interests.

Requests for file information can be obtained from Mrs. Schwier.

Sees Danger In Too Much U. S. Control

Government's Role Is to Assign, Not Dominate Television

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—There are two schools of thought nowadays in public affairs—those who want the government to take charge of everything, and those who want to see the individual freed from unnecessary restraints and restrictions so he can develop his ideas and his enterprises.

The subject is pertinent today because one group advocates that the government shall take complete charge of radio and television, and the other argues that this would be the worst thing that could happen to freedom of communication.

Which one of the two groups might be classed as "liberal" and which one could be described as "authoritarian?"

Even such an organization as one which calls itself "the American Civil Liberties union" seems to have deviated from the "liberal" faith as it declares that the federal communications commission "should energetically exercise its power to require the radio-television industry to provide the maximum possible range and balance in subject matter and treatment in its over-all programming."

Media Competition
Dr. Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting system, has called for a "freely competing, unrestricted television medium." He has been criticized for this statement on the ground that, since television channels are few in number and are allocated by the government, this is a monopoly. Dr. Stanton answers that there is no more reason why television should be regulated as to its content than newspapers should be. The argument is made in reply that anybody can buy a printing press and start a newspaper but nobody can get a television channel unless it is given up by a company already holding one.

But is this an accurate analogy? Must the government undertake to "balance" the disparities in business or the professions? In about 95 per cent of the cities of the United States there is only one newspaper ownership. Is it the duty of the government to provide competitors to "balance" in each community the viewpoint of the existing publication?

When the government tells the broadcasting stations what programs they must put on their channels to justify retention of their licenses, the end result is bound to be "authoritarianism." It certainly can't be called "liberalism."

Present Restraints

The viewpoint that, because the government allocates radio or television channels, it has the right to say what shall be done over the air waves by each licensee, is not of recent origin. Unfortunately, it was expressed as far back as the Hoover administration. This concept has been upheld by a ruling of the U. S. Supreme Court. But this very decision really ignored the constitutional principle of a free press and free speech.

The writer all through the 1920s argued against the doctrine that the allocation of a radio license gave a governmental commission the right to tell a station what programs it should or should not broadcast. There is, of course, every reason for the government to deny a license to any station that refuses to abandon misleading advertising or which engages in obscene shows, but these are the same restraints which the federal trade commission or the postal authorities may impose on the press.

Government judgment on the "quality" of radio or television programs is the road to "authoritarianism." All true liberals will vigorously oppose any interference with the right of a broadcasting or television company to present whatever it pleases on the air provided it doesn't offend the laws against libel or obscenity.

It is fundamentally wrong, moreover, for congress to insist on "equal time" for political candidates. The public alone should be the judge of whether the television or radio stations or the press are presenting "balanced" programs or news reports. It is the public, not the government, which in the final analysis should decide whether it likes what it hears or what it sees or what it reads. That's true liberalism.
